U. S. Officials Believe Conference Leads to Another This Year

MUST SATISFY PUBLIC

No Loopholes May Be Left If Bonds Are Sold to People as Investment

Washington—Confidence that the European governments will reach an agreement on a new plan for reparation payments is felt by officials of the United States government who recognize that the present conference may be preliminary to another and that before the end of the present year some basis for an accord will have been suggested.

The compelling factor in the situation is the economic structure of Germany which has been built up on the assumption that her indebtedness to the former opposition powers was to be gradually and effectively liquidated. There has not been in the past and there is not now any apprehension that Germany would default or repudiate her obligations. Indeed, with the vast amount of American capital that has gone into Germany already and with the knowledge that Germany will need even more American money for her expansion if she is to pay her reparations the feeling has developed that some way out of the difficulty would be found.

Unfortunately political aspects have crept into the problem at Berlin and Paris and the word received here is that the new method of approach seeks to eliminate such considerations and stick to the basic question of economic capacity to pay in the next few years with a provision for later revision.

The difficulty about this proposal is that if the reparation bonds are to be sold to the public, the conditions must be such that the investing public will be assured of the safety of the bonds. No loopholes can be left for later reduction of payments.

ROBINSON HITS BORAH FOR CAMPAIGN SILENCE

Washington—(P)—Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic vice presidential nominee in the last election, today assailed Senator Borah of Idaho, for making a plea for religious liberty in the senate a few days ago after he declared, the Idahoan had "remained as dumb as an oyster" during the campaign when the religious issue was the "overshadowing question."

Robinson said the Borah, who stumped the country for Herbert Hoover, never made such an eloquent appeal for religious liberty during the campaign.

"The senator can speak now of religious liberty," Robinson declared, "but you never heard the senator from Idaho make such an eloquent appeal during the campaign. Then he was as dumb as an oyster on the overshadowing question." Robinson's remarks were made during a discussion, pending farm relief bill.

Says Highway Officials Work Against Road Bill

Madison—(P)—Officials of the state highway department are working against his bill to reorganize the highway commission into a three-man, full-time salaried body because they "seem to prefer the loose, part-time control of the present commission," Senator Walter S. Goodland declared in a statement today.

The part-time road body leaves the management and control of twenty million dollars annually practically with employees of the department, and "this seemingly is what everyone interested in the opposition greatly admires," Goodland said.

"If the present attempt to reorganize and strengthen the highway department fails, it will mean the creature has become so powerful that it is stronger than the legislature itself," he said. "If a simple, sensible reorganization bill cannot be passed over the opposition of the department affected and private interests involved, it would seem to be hopeless to try and create better, more efficient and more economical government in Wisconsin."

Not only are the department officials opposed to his bill, Goodland said, but so are the private interests dependent upon highway expenditures. These interests, with the control and disposal of the millions involved, "evidently believe any changes are justified where such vast sums are at stake," he said.

DRUNKEN DRIVER PAYS FINE OF $50

Sherman Klein, 23, Kimberly, Is Arrested Following Accident

Sherman Klein, 23, Kimberly, was fined $50 and costs by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Friday morning when he pleaded guilty of driving an automobile while drunk.

Judge Berg also recommended to the secretary of state that Klein's driving license be revoked for six months.

The Kimberly man was arrested about midnight Thursday by Officer Edward Ratzman after his car crashed into a machine owned by J. B. Kalst, 18 W. Thirteenth-st., Fond du Lac. Klein was driving east on W. College-ave and Kalst's machine was parked at 807 W. College-ave.

A fender, running board and the body of Kalst's machine were damaged and the front end of Klein's machine was demolished.

POLICE HAVE TOO MANY CLEWS IN MURDER CASE

Chicago—(P)—Too many theories today threatened to wreck police investigation of the slaying of Dr. Frank L. Brady, dentist, last Wednesday night.

Detectives were laboring to reduce a number of alleged connections, any of which might produce murder, to a solitary clue.

Letters found in the slain dentist's office indicated dalliance with women; he had been under surveillance as an alleged aide of Henry "Midget" Pernekes, notorious bandit now serving a life term in prison; he was the son of Mrs. Anna Borechamp, alleged shield for Pernekes, who committed suicide, he was thought to have been connected with narcotic traffic; rumors connected him with Al Capone. He was known to have paid mysterious visits to a convict in the penitentiary at Wau-pun, Wis.

Out of these bits of information police admitted they have found nothing that will point to the identity of the two men who walked in to his office and shot him down in the presence of another and a patient.

HELP SELF BY AIDING RAILS, SARGENT SAYS

Railroad Head Tells C. of C. Prosperity Depends on Transportation

Prosperity of the railroads is reflected in the prosperity of the country, Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and North-western Railway Co., told approximately 150 men and women at the annual meeting of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce at Conway hotel Thursday night.

"Transportation is the basis of modern civilization," he said. "This is evident when one recalls that all backward countries today are those without adequate railroad systems. Prosperity of the railroads is reflected in your homes, your schools, and your churches, and when railroads encounter a financial strain, the country at large suffers accordingly."

Mr. Sargent pleaded for the principle of lower rates for longer hauls where circumstances justify. He alleged that the government, either consciously or unconsciously, is unjust to the central region of the United States and is punishing the transportation system of the middle west.

"The law prohibits us from establishing lower rates for longer hauls than for short hauls without permission of the railroad commission, and such permission is granted in very few instances," he said. "Consequently it prevents us from competing with water routes, and inflicts a hardship on you in the middle west."

ATTACK PANAMA CANAL

"Although you have helped pay for the Panama canal in taxes, the canal has taken hundreds of industries out of the middle west. And having done that, the government then turned around and said we cannot fix rates to the west in competition with the Panama canal."

"As a result, we must haul hundreds of empty cars back to the west coast without a pound of goods."

CONSERVATION ORDER MAY NOT RETROACT

Washington—(P)—President Hoover took under advisement today a request of a group of senators from the public land states that the oil conservation order recently issued by him should not be made retroactive as to applications for leases and prospecting permits filed before the order became effective and as yet unconsidered by the interior department.

The senators also said the chief executive had looked with favor on their further proposal that there should be special consideration in the cases of permits in which special equities existed at the time the order stopping further drilling and prospecting was issued.

Gipsies Preparing For "Royal" Wedding Rites

Louisville, Ky.—(P)—Gypsy tribes from Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Chicago, St. Louis, Philadelphia and other points were moving towards Louisville today to attend one of the most elaborate wedding ceremonies ever staged by gypsies in this country.

It is expected that between 400 and 500 gypsies will be in the city by tomorrow, when Frank John, 17-year-old son of Chief Gregory John of Philadelphia, and Rose Stanley, 16, daughter of William Stanley of Louisville, will be wed. Both are members of the John tribe and the tribe is expected to congregate en masse for the ceremonies.

Pigs, turkeys and chickens were being roasted all over town for the feast. An orchestra from Cincinnati has been engaged to play continuously for the first 24 hours of celebration.

The wedding will take place in a three-acre field near the Ohio river, where Chief John and about thirty tribesmen and their families have pitched tents. Approximately 200 "Brazilians," living in town and belonging to the tribe, are expected to join in the festivities.

PSYCHIC INFLUENCE IMPELLED MARION TO QUIT, SISTER SAYS

New York—(P)—Marion Talley's sister Florence insists that the young opera singer is retreating in obedience to mysterious psychic forces which have guided her career.

When Marion announced her decision to quit the operatic and concert stage two weeks ago she said something about "destiny" but also gave the more prosaic reason that she wanted to live on a farm.

Sister Florence, a sedate, bobbed-haired blonde, who has been Marion's secretary, explained her theory, which is reminiscent of the classic Trilby, thus:

"You see, Marion is not conscious of the mysterious powers that guide her actions. But mother and I have known it all the time so that when she suddenly told us that she had decided to quit opera we weren't a bit surprised."

DEBENTURE IS LOST, SENATE CHIEFS THINK

Watson of Indiana, Moves to Eliminate Export Plan from Measure

Washington—(P)—Coincident with the transmission of the administration farm relief bill from the house, a move was made in the senate today by Senator Watson of Indiana, the Republican leader, to eliminate the export debenture plan from the senate measure to make it conform more nearly to the views of President Hoover.

Just when a vote might be obtained on the motion was uncertain, as a number of members immediately indicated they wished to discuss the proposal.

The debenture plan, objected to by the chief executive, was written into the senate measure by its agricultural committee. On the other hand, the house agricultural committee refused to incorporate the proposal in the bill it framed, and the house later sustained this action.

Shortly after Watson's motion today, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, took the floor and delivered an attack upon Republican senators who have abandoned the equalization fee as a part of the farm relief program. Robinson directed his address particularly to Senator McNary of Oregon, the chairman of the senate agriculture committee.

EXPERIMENT ELIMINATION

Passage of the bill in the house—officially recorded at 367 to 35—was regarded as a clear indication that President Hoover's opposition to the export debenture plan, which is receiving vigorous support in the senate, will be heeded in the final action of congress on the subject.

Senate leaders plan to allot only two or three more days to the general discussion of the bill before the chamber. They expect to be able to bring the debenture provision which was voted into their bill by the agriculture committee to a vote by Tuesday night, and after that is disposed of obtain a vote quickly on the entire measure.

Concerning the vote on the debenture provision will be close, the senate leaders are convinced after a check of the membership that it will be defeated. Their latest estimate is that seven or eight Democrats will vote against the plan and that to 14 Republicans will vote for it. Practically no opposition to either sections of the senate bill has been indicated.

HELPS SOLVE PROBLEM

Defeat of the debenture provision, administration supporters believe, will eliminate the principal obstacle in sight to bringing about an agreement between the senate and house on the farm relief and provisions of the measure, although, at present they are somewhat different.

The bill sent to the senate by the house is regarded by administration leaders in both chambers as having the approval of President Hoover. Like the senate bill, its principal clauses provide for the establishment of a federal farm board with a $500,000,000 revolving fund at its disposal to be employed largely through cooperative agencies and commodity stabilization corporations in an effort to enable the farmers to help themselves toward prosperity and economic stability with workers in other industries.

More than two score of amendments to the bill were postponed during the two days the house devoted to consideration of changes in the draft received from its agricultural committee, but only three were accepted and these were all proposed by members of the committee with the intention of clarifying the language.

The debenture provision and the equalization fee which caused two McNary-Haugen bills to be vetoed, both were proposed as amendments in the house but did not come to a vote, being ruled out.

BRITONS FLY FROM LONDON TO KARACHI

FORMER DRY SPY BOUND OVER TO GRAND JURY

Milwaukee—(P)—Ira Billington, former prohibition informer, today was bound over to the grand jury after a hearing before United States Commissioner Harry L. Kellogg. Billington is charged with accepting a bribe. Unable to furnish the $1,000 bond required of him, he was returned to the county jail where he has been held since his arrest Tuesday.

FORMER PROSECUTOR BREAKS GAME LAWS

Iron River, Mich.—(P)—Martin McDonough, former prosecutor of Ironcon and hero of the famous "Ironcon" "rum rebellion" a few years ago, was revealed today as "Fred Doyle" who pleaded guilty three weeks ago over the telephone to Justice John Curley, to a charge of violating the game laws. He was angling for trout.

Dry Slayer To Go Free, Probers Say

But Grand Jury Is Uncertain Whether to Indict Dead Woman's Husband

Geneva, Ill.—(P)—The grand jury has decided not to indict Deputy Sheriff Roy Smith for the slaying during a dry raid of Mrs. Lillian DeKing; but it was reported to have been deadlocked for some hours yesterday over a proposal to indict the dead woman's husband, Joseph, on a liquor charge.

Ten surprise witnesses were understood to have told of having bought liquor from DeKing at Aurora home and it was on this testimony that some members of the jury favored an indictment. The majority, however, held that whether DeKing sold liquor was beside the question, the investigation being to determine how his wife was killed and if her killing called for indictment.

It was revealed that DeKing was asked by one juror if he did not consider himself to blame for his wife's death. Had he not been standing with his revolver in plain sight when the raiders demanded to search his home, he would not have been struck down from behind and his wife shot, he was advised.

One true bill was voted. It charged the slaying of Lillian DeKing, a woman, by Deputy Sheriff Roy Smith, who admitted of buying liquor at the DeKing home to the raid. DeKing told a coroner's jury that he did not actually buy the liquor himself, as the affidavit asserted.

A coroner's jury found that Mrs. DeKing had been shot by Deputy Sheriff Smith as she attempted to go to the side of her husband, who had been killed by a blow from Smith's clubbed shotgun. The jury recommended Smith be held for manslaughter.

Several members of the grand jury yesterday were said to have voted to indict Smith, but no number was divulged and only one ballot was taken.

BRITISH LEADERS PRAISE U. S. PLAN

Baldwin Says Government Favors Reduction Proposed by Gibson

London—(P)—Broad praise of American disarmament proposals by three leading figures of Great Britain was before the British people today.

More important even than mere praise was the declaration of Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin in an election meeting at Bristol that his majority's government favored the same drastic reduction of every class of naval vessel that Ambassador Gibson himself proposed at Geneva.

"This is and has been throughout our purpose and desire," the premier declared, "and we will cooperate cordially with the United States to secure its general acceptance."

He added that the American suggestions as to the manner in which disarmament might be accomplished were equally welcomed with the proposals for disarmament itself but that the British government must wait until these suggestions have been given concrete form before making answer to them.

"Above all," he said, "we welcome and we appreciate the spirit in which President Hoover has approached this difficult problem and we hope with American aid to find in his suggestion a basis of a practical solution."

Lord Cecil of Chelwood, whose own vigorous espousal of disarmament led recently to what some considered a break with other conservative party leaders, in a speech at London referred to Ambassador Gibson's proposals as "a tremendously important offer." He said he hoped the British government would accept it unreservedly and without the slightest holding back or doubts of any kind.

At the ninth annual reunion dinner of British official missions to the United States the Marquis of Eglinton, Liberal peer and former viceroy of India, commented on the wide vision and humanity of President Hoover as exemplified in the disarmament proposals.

GRAND DUKE MICHAEL SUCCUMBS IN LONDON

London—Grand Duke Michael of Russia, cousin of the late tsar, died here this morning.

Grand Duke Michael suffered an attack of influenza late in the winter which left him weak, and his family had given up hope he might live some days past.

The grand duke was for years an important figure in London society and smart Anglo-American circles on the Riviera where he spent a part of his time. Although his fortunes were badly depleted by the Russian revolution he still was able to maintain a fine London residence and a beautiful villa at Cannes where he sometimes entertained lavishly.

S. CAROLINA AND GEORGIA REGIONS HIT

Several Hundred Persons Injured—Greatest Toll in South Georgia

HUNDREDS HOMELESS Huge Property Loss to Buildings and Crops Reported in Two States

Atlanta, Ga.—(P)—The total known dead in the tornado stricken sections of Georgia and South Carolina reached 71 today. Several hundred persons were injured.

The greatest destruction was wrought in South Georgia, 62 of the reported dead being in that section. The other six were in South Carolina.

Statesboro, Ga., county seat of a Bulloch-co., near Savannah, reported that more than thirty persons were dead and many others injured. A call came from Statesboro to the Georgia Board of Health for antitoxin serum and for nurses.

Metter, the seat of Camden-co., reported 25 known dead from two tornadoes which were accompanied by hail and a downpour of rain. One struck at 8:10 last night and the second at 11 o'clock.

Cochran, seat of Bleckley-co., approximately 60 miles south of Macon, reported five dead and injured to approximately fifty. First reports from Cochran had fixed the death toll at a score number but later reports revised these figures.

Dexter, 2 dead, more than 50 injured.

Renton, 1 dead, dozen injured.

Norrestown, 2 dead, several injured.

Polk, S. C., 3 dead.

Anderson, S. C., 1 dead.

SWEEPS TO NORTHEAST

The tornadoes swept through four south Georgia communities, swept northeastward over the Atlantic seaboard and reappeared at two cities in South Carolina.

Hundreds of persons were made homeless when their homes were wrecked and damage to buildings and crops will run into the thousands of dollars.

The twisters appeared in two distinct sections. The first struck late in the afternoon near Cochran, Ga. The wind then descended on Dexter, Ga., jumped to Renton, Ga., and then swept up the seaboard to reappear at Pelzer and Anderson, S. C.

The second tornado struck late last night at Metter, Ga. Communication facilities were destroyed at many points and relief parties feared a larger death toll when a complete check had been made.

Witnesses said the tornadoes struck in a series of leaps, swirled off and reappeared at points many miles away, leaving desolation over wide areas.

Heavy hail storms accompanied the winds in many sections, beating down crops and damaging peach orchards.

Many of the rural residents saw the storm approaching and were able to seek shelter. One farmer, with wife and five children sought refuge in a drainage ditch. They watched their home blown to pieces, but escaped unhurt.

Others were not so fortunate. A man and his wife near Dexter fled to an open field, where they were struck by the twister. The woman and her six months old child was killed and the man seriously injured.

Milton Knight and his family sought shelter in a potato bin which was torn to pieces and the family injured by falling logs.

The tornadoes caused destruction over a wide area in half dozen counties. In some cases several members of families were killed.

Mrs. C. O. Newton, living on the Hazen district of Bullock-co., was awakened by rain beating in her face. Her home had been blown down while she slept and scattered about her were the bodies of her four children, Emma, 28, Lily, May, 25, Edna, 15, Ann, Grady, 15.

DIEGEL AND ESPINOSA WIN 1ST TOURNEY ROUND

Moortown, England—(P)—Leo Diegel and Al Espinosa won the first point for the United States in the Ryder cup professional golf play by defeating Aubrey Boomer and George Duncan, seven up and five to play, in the 36-hole foursome.

Abc Mitchell and Fred Robson evened the point score at one to one by defeating Gene Sarazen and Ed Dudley, two up and one to play. This match was all square at the half way mark and was hard fought throughout the afternoon play.

Johnny Farrell and Joe Turnesa finished all square with Charles Whitcombe and Archie Compston and the score remained tied in points, 1-1 to 1-1. The result of the final foursome, Hagen and Golden vs. Ernest Whitcombe and Cotton was to decide the advantage, if any, going into the singles play tomorrow.

Chamber Of Commerce Hears Report Of 1928 Work

INDUSTRY SEEKING STARTS AT HOME, THIEDE ADVISES

Retiring President Urges Support for Appleton Institutions

Election of five new directors was announced Thursday evening at the annual meeting of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce at the Con-way hotel. The new directors are George H. Schmidt, L. J. Marshall, R. W. Getschow, George C. Dame and William A. Strassburger. A total of 217 votes was cast, with only a comparatively slight margin in a field of 10 candidates for the winners.

A director's meeting was to be held at 2:15 Friday afternoon. Officers for the coming year were to be elected at that time.

Retiring directors are W. O. Thiede, James A. Wood, M. A. Schuh, A. H. Wickesberg and H. C. Humphrey.

A strong plea for support of the chamber of commerce by members and citizens as a whole was made by the retiring president after reports on the past year's activities had been read by the president, by Kenneth Corbett, secretary, and by M. A. Schuh, treasurer.

Characterizing the expansion program as perhaps the most outstanding thing undertaken by the chamber during the year, Mr. Thiede answered those critics who asked "Why doesn't the chamber bring in new industry?"

"If a survey were made to determine the amount of the great industrial growth of our American cities due to concerns brought in from other communities, I believe the most people would be amazed to find how small a portion is due to this factor. It is known that approximately 80 per cent of all new industrial firms fail," said Mr. Thiede in his report.

"Industries that are operating profitably are not anxious to pull up and leave their present location, and those that are not operating profitably are not anxious to leave. I wish to point out the fact that there has not been a single major industry brought into Wisconsin since the opening of the Panama canal. How, then, can we expect to move industry into Appleton if it is impossible to persuade it to move into the state?"

HELP LOCAL INDUSTRY

"Let me suggest, as retiring president, that the members of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce lend their support and interest to the development of local industry — industry that we know, industry that is well located and has an opportunity to grow — instead of wasting our efforts in seeking to relocate a bankrupt shoe factory, or some other unfortunate manufacturing enterprise that has met with financial reverses."

"By following the practice of encouraging local manufacturing enterprises, outside concerns with financial strength which are looking for new locations will be much more anxious to come to this city."

Mr. Thiede urged members of the chamber to take an active interest in the necessity for a metropolitan sewer, pointing out that the city is to begin a five-year program of separating storm sewers from the sanitary sewers. The projected building of a sewage disposal plant just east of St. Joseph cemetery, he said, will leave the city's still considerably polluted by sewage of Neenah and Menasha in the river. He suggested that a metropolitan sewage disposal plant be built below Kaukauna, and that Appleton, Neenah, Menasha, Little Chute and Kaukauna unite in the project.

This undertaking, despite any extra cost that might be incurred, the speaker thought, would be "tremendously worth while."

$100,000 SAVING

More than $100,000 a year was saved for the city by the work of the traffic department, under direction of Roy G. Wort, as the result of its opposition to rate increases, the speaker estimated.

Mr. Thiede paid a special tribute to Gustave Keller, Sr., Col. J. L. Johns and F. N. Belanger for their work in stimulating added interest in the city through the forward expansion program. He also praised Mr. Corbett, as secretary, for his good judgment in meeting the numerous problems which confronted the chamber during the year.

Mr. Corbett briefly outlined the work of the chamber during the year, pointing out that detailed accounts of committee activities will be mailed to every member.

Work of the air service committee won his special commendation. He traced its success in helping secure airmail service for the city, providing landing facilities for mail planes, and obtaining the promise, along with other cities along the route and with the aid of Congressman Schneider, of the department of commerce to light the route from Milwaukee to Green Bay.

Sixty-two "schemes for raising funds for supposedly worthy causes" were investigated during the year, he said. The money saved by opposition to those proved fraudulent, he estimated, might be between $5,000 and $20,000.

Other activities included encouraging boys and girls in the county in 4-H club work; helping five local organizations entertain state conventions; helping secure a direct appropriation for a federal building; solution of seven industrial problems involving local industries and industries the chamber hoped would locate here; the study of the community chest plan; work for improvement of farmers' fair grounds; cooperation in the Fox River Valley Safety Council's program; cooperation with the T. M. C. A. in conducting a public speaking class; development of a traffic study class; and many tasks ranging from translation of foreign mail, to procuring information concerning customs on the Canadian border.

Homor H. Benton, a director, expressed appreciation of the chamber to Robert K. Wolter for the latter's three years' service as president.

Rail President Here to Talk to Civic Chamber

When Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad, arrived here Thursday afternoon in his special car he was greeted by a group of Appleton businessmen who entertained him until the dinner meeting of the chamber of commerce in the evening. The reception committee included J. P. Frank, H. L. Davis, R. S. Powell, A. K. Ellis and W. B. Basing, local agent for the railroad. Mr. Sargent and his party was photographed as he alighted from the train here. The group, reading from left to right: Mr. Frank, J. S. Rice, Green Bay superintendent of the Northern Wisconsin division; A. E. Ladwig, Milwaukee general agent; Mr. Powell, Mr. Sargent, Mr. Basing, Mr. Davis, W. W. Fradenburg, yardmaster here for the railroad, and Mr. Ellis.

Tent Covers Burned Child On Cot In Hospital Here

With deep burns on her back extending from her neck to her legs, little Leona Martin, 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Martin, Shiocton, is making a desperate fight for her life at St. Elizabeth's hospital. Although she is not suffering to a great degree nevertheless the location and nature of the burns makes convalescence for a child of four a tortuous problem. Little shift of position is possible, and the child is forced to lie on her stomach practically all of the time, with a tent above her to take the place of clothes which cannot be placed on her body. An electric lamp serves to keep up the body heat of the unclothed child.

Her condition for the past few days has remained unchanged. According to her physician she has a good chance to recover if a kidney infection does not set in, but because of the great area which was burned it is problematical if she will be able to ward off such an infection. At best she will be confined to the hospital for six months.

The little girl was burned when her clothing caught fire while she was playing with matches at her home while her parents were absent.

TRAINING SCHOOL CALLED BOON TO RURAL CHILDREN

Principal Lauds Law Setting Up Schools for Country Teachers

A crowded house enjoyed the entertainment in the Hickory Grove school, town of Dale, Thursday evening, planned and directed by the Parent-Teacher association of the district. The entertainment consisted of a musical and literary program, a social hour and a lunch.

The outstanding features of the program were the musical and declamatory numbers of the pupils of the school, a play, declamations, and music, by students and teachers of Outagamie County Training School; talks and readings by A. P. Hagman, principal of the training school; and a talk by County Agent Gus Sell.

Mr. Hagman said that an act of the legislature made the establishment of county training schools for teachers possible in Wisconsin. There are now thirty-one of these schools in the counties of the state. Up to the time their establishment, no institutions in the state prepared teachers for the rural schools. The normal schools did not do it, nor did the colleges and high schools. In consequence of this neglect, the rural schools were suffering from the lack of prepared teachers.

The purpose of the county training schools is to prepare teachers through rural boys and girls may get training in their local schools equal to that of city schools.

The training schools prefer to draw students from rural communities and after their education is completed to send them back as teachers.

Seventy-five per cent of the teachers in Outagamie county now are graduates of the county training school, he said.

"The aim in 4-H club work is to learn how to do things by doing in accordance with the better methods," said Mr. Sell. "By learning how to do things a club member learns how to help himself and his dad."

Officers of the Hickory Grove P. T. A. are Mrs. E. Borgwardt, president; Mrs. Ed Roessler, vice president; and Miss E. Sweeney, secretary and treasurer.

Committees are: Entertainment—Edward Roessler, W. Running and R. Prewell; Refreshments—Mrs. L. Niemuth, Mrs. Edward Fielding and Norma Roessler; 4-H club—Carl Roessler, Carl Braehmer, Wilmer Martin and Kenneth Strelow.

Prepare Debate

A debate on the question, "Resolved: That Charlesmagne was a greater man than Richard the Lion Hearted," is being prepared by pupils of the sixth grade at First Ward school. The affirmative arguments will be presented by Barbara Wriston, captain; Ted Brunke and Peggy Jennings; and the negative side will be upheld by John Frank, captain, Dan Murphy and Annabelle Wolf.

Erick L. Madison, Paul V. Cary, Jr., and Frank Sager of the Milwaukee Publishing company were in Milwaukee on business Friday.

ber of the board of directors, during one of which he served as president. An engraved certificate was given to Mr. Wolter.

SHERIFF ADVISES OWNERS TO KEEP DOGS CONFINED

Quarantine May Not Be Justified but Is Legal Giese Points Out

Outagamie county residents who own dogs were warned Friday by Sheriff Fred W. Giese that the animals must be kept tied up for 90 days as a result of the quarantine placed on the county Thursday by the state department of agriculture.

"While there may be some serious doubt in the minds of many people as to the justification of placing the entire county under quarantine," he said, "it is my duty as sheriff to see that the ban is made effective," the sheriff said.

Mr. Giese pointed out that perhaps there was some truth in the claims of veterinarians that the facts did not warrant placing the ban on the entire county but that nothing could be done here unless the state board rescinded its action. Until such action is taken by the agricultural department the sheriff advises every dog owner to keep his animal tied.

Deputy sheriffs have been instructed to enforce the quarantine but they are to use caution in doing so. There is no need for a wholesale slaughter of dogs, the sheriff said, but never the less the quarantine will be made effective while it stands.

Under the terms of the quarantine dogs which run at large may be killed by anyone.

The sheriff pointed out that to avoid trouble dog owners had better keep the animals tied until they receive notice that the ban has been lifted.

Appleton veterinarians claim there is justification for placing the entire county under quarantine and they were making efforts Thursday and Friday to have the order vacated.

Previous to the order placing the entire county under quarantine four towns, Buchanan, Center, Ellington and Greenville, had been placed under the ban following outbreaks of rabies. However, according to the chairman of these towns, there have been no further cases reported since the quarantine was established and they could see no reason for placing the whole county under similar restriction.

RIVER POUNDS LEVEES; 5,000 ARE MENACED

Damage May Reach $5,000,000 if Mississippi Batters Through Dikes

Quincy, Ill. —(AP)—Hurricane like tremendous bulk southward in the biggest rise since 1851, the Mississippi today was waging a new assault that may break through every levee for 75 miles below Keokuk, Iowa, leave 5,000 people homeless, and cause damage that might reach $5,000,000.

Acting on the government observers' prediction that the stage would reach 22 feet at Quincy today and might to 22.4 feet, Sheriff Kenneth A. Elmore ordered officials of the Illinois state police to take district, ten miles north of here, to have all families ready to move promptly in case of emergency. This district was causing the greatest worry today, with levees capable of standing only about six inches more rise, and with a foot and one half increase expected. At least 1,000 people live in this section.

The 400 people in the Gregory district, across the river from the Lima lake-Hunt section, were also preparing to evacuate almost anytime. This district consists of about 9,000 acres.

Confidence that the huge St. Louis district of more than 110,000 acres would be safe is fading following reports of three bad places in the one dike protecting it. It is the home of nearly 4,000 people.

No one, as a matter of fact, seems to know which levees are most likely to go. They have no means of knowing as these dikes have a way of breaking when and where they are least expected to do so.

The Red Cross is preparing for emergencies.

DANGER AT MANITOWOC

Manitowoc —(AP)—With the Manitowoc river six inches above datum residents today feared the conditions if the water continues to rise but a few inches.

The downtown stretch of the river was above the dock landing at Eighth-st. bridge, in the heart of the city, and reports from rural districts were that the river was lapping at the bank tops. Heavy rainfall Wednesday and Thursday caused the rise.

The Little Manitowoc river, north of the city, was rising and it was feared highway 141 to Two Rivers would be flooded for several hundred feet. The Layne-Bowler company, which is drilling for water for the city, was compelled to cease operations when the waters inundated their working area near the highway.

FOX STILL HIGH

Green Bay —(AP)—Flood waters driven over the low-lying residential section along the Bay beach road here and up the Fox and East rivers by a northerly wind yesterday, today were receding, but many of the home owners in the inundated section were still using boats and hip boots to get about. The Fox river is still about two feet above normal.

FEAR MORE DEATHS IN WYOMING STORM

Two Are Reported, With Property Damage Estimated at $100,000

Cheyenne, Wyo. —(AP)—With two deaths reported and property damage in the vicinity of Cheyenne estimated at $100,000 it was believed here today that the toll of the Wyoming blizzard would mount when communication over the storm area is reestablished.

Many motorists were stranded on the highways and no news of them has been received here since Wednesday. Highway crews are making every effort to reach them.

Stockmen feared a heavy loss of sheep but hoped that the short duration of the storm minimized the destruction of their flocks.

A single telegraph wire from Cheyenne to Denver, which was repaired late last night, ended Cheyenne's isolation after wires in every direction had been down for more than 4 hours.

Cheyenne had the appearance of a deserted town with business at a standstill. Most of the schools closed and automobile traffic was paralyzed. Snow, more than a foot deep, blocked the downtown streets. Electrical power service was curtailed.

The body of George Ross, a sheep herder, was found near Thermopolis, buried under a snowdrift less than 100 feet from his tent. J. H. Reed of Glendo, Wyo., died on a highway near Cheyenne, Wyo., apparently from exhaustion and exposure.

Mrs. Fred V. Heinemann is spending a week in Chicago with her brother, Dr. C. A. Pardee, Rogers Park.

SNOW BANK SAVES CAR FROM BEING DAMAGED IN FALL

Lady Luck sat at the steering wheel of a large roadster owned by Harvey Schulze of this city which took a death defying leap into the ravine north of College-ave at 7 o'clock Friday morning. The car was parked in the alley in the rear of the Glouman-Gage store and the emergency brakes had not been applied.

The machine suddenly started down the incline by itself and after running the length of the alley in the rear of the Hopfensperger meat market went over the embankment, dropped approximately 35 feet and landed on the soft pile of snow, dumped there by the street crews, none the worse for its experience. It was towed to the street by two large city wrecking trucks.

CHERRY-ST PLANS FOR CURB, GUTTER FACING OBSTACLE

Council Seeks Assurance That Drives Can Be Widened Later on

At least one obstacle must be overcome before plans for the curb and gutter on S. Cherry-st between Memorial bridge and the county line are adopted by the common council. The plans have been completed by L. L. Schindler, city engineer, but have been referred to the streets and bridges committee by the council, with instructions to confer with the American Legion, the organization contemplating an improvement program on the street to make it a memorial drive.

The obstacle blocking approval of the plans is the lack of assurance that, should the proposed curb and gutter be constructed, the highway on each side of the boulevard still could be widened to 27 feet should occasion ever demand such action. The streets and bridges committee, with the American Legion, will investigate this phase of the program before submitting its recommendation to the common council.

Plans call for a curbing on the inside of the two drives and adjacent to the boulevard. This would widen each drive about a foot and a half, increasing the width of the roadway to 19½ feet on each side of the boulevard. If it is shown that the city can secure enough ground on the outside of each drive to permit widening the drives to 27 feet, the plans undoubtedly will be approved without further delay. The curb would be constructed along the boulevard from the county line to the end of the boulevard near Memorial bridge.

If the inside curbs are constructed, the American Legion intends to plant trees and shrubbery on the boulevard and carry out an extensive improvement program. It is doubtful if the program would be attempted, however, if the curbs are not built, as experience has shown that motorists frequently drive off the pavement and over the boulevard, damaging the ground.

Mrs. Lida B. Brown of Manitowoc is the guest of Mrs. A. E. Rector, S. Meade-st. Mrs. Brown will attend the P. E. O. Sisterhood luncheon Saturday at the Conway hotel on Saturday.

LEVEL OF RIVER AND LAKE RISES FOLLOWING RAIN

Lake Reaches Highest Level This Year; River Goes Up One Inch

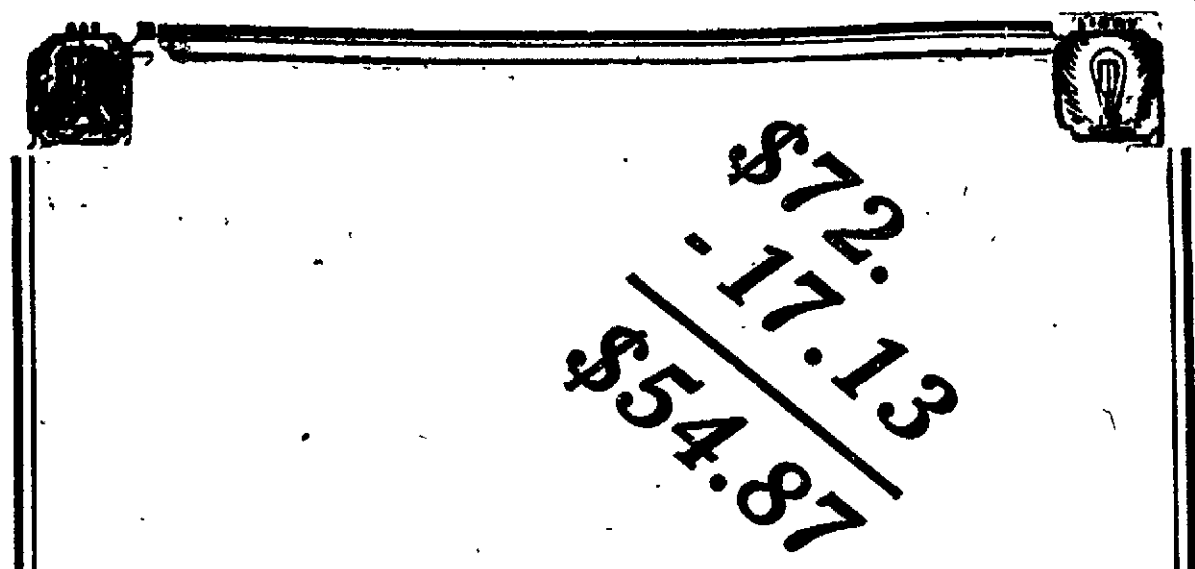

The Fox river rose one inch over Thursday night bringing the level to 27 7/8 inches above the crest of the Menasha dam, according to a report of George Allanson, Menasha lock tender. The level of the lake reached the highest level this year Thursday night, according to a report from Fond du Lac Friday morning.

Water in Lake Winnebago which Thursday were thrown against summer cottages and over some lake shore highways by a strong wind had subsided considerably Friday morning. The wind died down Thursday night and waters began to recede.

Although cottages were battered by the waves no serious damage was caused. Most of the park land at Waverly Beach was under water Thursday afternoon and night but no damage was reported.

Despite the open sluice gates at the Neenah and Menasha dams, the waters were driven south across the lake by the wind and washed over normally high ground. Lake level sewers were filled to capacity and in several sections of Fond du Lac Thursday morning the water was flowing from catch basins and flooding streets, it was reported.

The level of the Wolf went up approximately 1 1/2 inches Thursday, but no damage was reported. The reading at New London was 9.8 feet Friday morning.

TO ARBITRATE IN SINKING OF CANADIAN SHIP

U. S. and Neighbor Will Act
Under Clause in 1924
Smuggling Pact

Washington—(P)—The dispute between the United States and Canada over the sinking of the rum runner I'm Alone by the coast guard patrol boat Dexter 200 miles off the Louisiana coast is to be submitted to arbitration.

This action will be taken under a clause of the 1924 rum smuggling treaty between the United States and Great Britain which provides that a dispute under the treaty shall be submitted first to two arbitrators, one nominated by each government and that if they fail to agree, it shall be referred, under the claims commission agreement of 1910, to three arbitrators, including one neutral.

The correspondence on the I'm Alone case, published this morning, disclosed that the Canadian government conceded that the schooner, which was of Canadian registry, "had unquestionably been engaged for a number of years, under various owners, endeavoring to smuggle liquor into the United States," but raised three points under the 1924 treaty.

The I'm Alone, it held, was not within the search and seizure limit of "one hour's sailing distance" from the American coast when hailed nor at any time during the pursuit which ended with her sinking; that essential elements of the international doctrine of "hot pursuit" were lacking in the case, and that the sinking of the vessel was too severe a measure to effect American rights under the treaty.

The American position, set forth by Secretary Stimson, was that the I'm Alone was within one-hour's sailing distance of the shore when hailed; that continuous and hot pursuit took place, and that the sinking was justified.

SIXTH WARD FLOOD TROUBLES REMEDIED

Engineer Doesn't Expect
Any More Flooded Cellars
There

It is not likely that residents of the Sixth ward and especially those living near the northern extremity of N. Meade-st., will be bothered by flooded cellars any more, according to L. L. Schindler, city engineer. Catch basins at the corner of Circle and Meade-st. have been "throttled down," and the water which the basins cannot handle flows along a ditch for another block to Brewster-st., where it enters a storm water sewer.

Prior to this spring, water from the fields northwest of that part of the city, flowed down to Meade-st., emptied into the catch basins at Meade and Circle-sts., overloaded the sewers and backed into the cellars of many homes. Having limited the amount of water the catch basins can handle, the city engineer does not believe these conditions will exist any longer. No discomfort was experienced from the rain storm on Thursday.

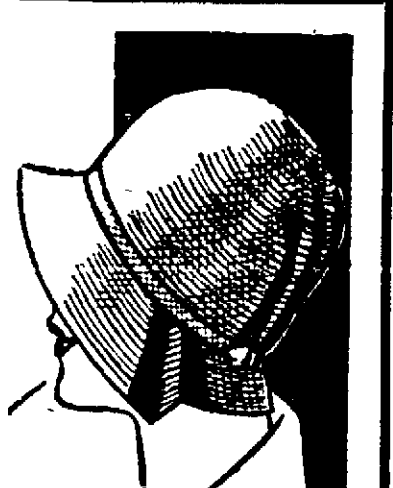

COUNCIL TO EXTEND W. WASHINGTON-ST

W. Washington-st. probably will be extended west to N. Bennett-st. this summer, according to tentative plans of the common council.

Only one lot separates the end of Washington-st. from Bennett-st. and the city owns the lot, which has a house on it. The property was purchased by the city to permit the street extension when the project was deemed necessary.

The council has advertised for bids for the house and as soon as it is disposed of, plans probably will be drawn up for the extension.

HIS NEW HEALTH IS DUE TO SARGON

After Seeing Remarkable Benefit He Obtained His Wife Begins Treatment

"After suffering for five years Sargon has made me feel like a new man in just four weeks. I had stomach and liver trouble, and no matter how careful I was about eating, my food would not digest right. Gas pains in my right side felt like a knife sticking in me, and would nearly double me up at times. My nervous system became upset and made me restless at night. I didn't get a good night's sleep in years. I tried medicines and treatments of all kinds without benefit, until I took Sargon. Now I can hardly wait for meal time to come, and everything I eat agrees with me. There are no bad after effects; no gas; no pains or distress of any kind, and I do not have that tired, listless feeling. I feel full of new life and energy."

OTTO BUTZKE

"I suffered for five years with chronic constipation, and had sick headaches and dizzy spells from this trouble. I took many kinds of laxatives but got no permanent benefit. Sargon Soft Mass Pills overcame this trouble with no griping or nausea at all."

"Besides overcoming all those troubles for me, the Sargon treatment put eight pounds of new flesh on me. My wife was so delighted with the wonderful results I got, that she started the treatment and is getting good results already. We cannot praise Sargon enough, and if what we say causes anybody else to be benefited we will be highly pleased."

The above statement was made by Otto Butzke, of 493 Milwaukee St., Milwaukee. He is an expert candy maker for the Robert A. Johnston Candy Co., and is highly respected. Sargon may be obtained in Appleton from Volgt's Drug Store and in Kaukauna from H. G. Drauer.

Kaukauna Bank Offers To Help Four-H Clubs

The 4-H calf club movement was given considerable impetus in the vicinity of Kaukauna Friday with the announcement by F. A. Towles, cashier, that the institution would offer inducements to members of clubs in that region.

Perhaps the most important offer made by the bank is a proposal to loan to calf club members sufficient funds to purchase a calf. The bank also offers its rooms to the club as a meeting place and either Mr. Towles or some other member of the bank will act as leader or a leader will be secured.

Another inducement to farm boys and girls to join clubs is the bank's offer to conduct a local fair at the end of the season with $40 in cash prizes for the best animals in four groups. There will be three prizes for the best animals in the senior Holstein and three for the best in the junior Holstein divisions. Three prizes also are offered for the best three animals in junior and senior all-breed classes.

The offer to help in the 4-H club movement was accepted by Gus Sell, county agricultural agent.

Since Mr. Sell took over his duties as county agent he has spent considerable time in an effort to awaken interest in the 4-H club movement. Last year the county had 12 clubs; then Mr. Sell has organized 14 clubs with 110 members and he has prospects of securing at least three or four more clubs which will increase the membership to about 150.

Rail President Says Prosperity Is Tied Up With Transportation

freight in them. If we were permitted to offer lower rates to compete with the canal, we not only would be better off but the middle west would be benefited accordingly."

The Panama canal will not justify itself to the middle west until a higher toll is charged and taxes are assessed commensurate with taxes paid by the railroads, he pointed out.

Railroads also should be able to establish rates permitting middle west manufacturers to ship their articles to all corners of the world, he said.

"We must develop the materialistic side of life to enjoy the cultural side," he said. "Materialistic prosperity is necessary to life and well-being. Without prosperity, we cannot have culture. Therefore prosperity needs the consideration of men and women always."

"Prosperity of the railroads comes home to you all. Just think what this country would be without them. New York City would starve to death within 60 days if it was cut off from the railroads. The health of Chicago's children depends upon the hourly function of the railroads, as millions of quarts of milk are brought into Chicago daily by the trains. Fresh milk from Wisconsin is available in Miami, thanks to your food from the four corners of the globe. That is what the railroads mean to you, as you undoubtedly realize, but I just wish to take this opportunity of reminding you of it."

WAGES TAKE MOST
With the exception of an infinitesimal sum, all of the money taken in by the railroads goes back to employees in wages, according to Mr. Sargent. He said he felt satisfied that if the people knew what becomes of the money, they would realize the roads belong to them.

Referring to legislation tending to country could not operate on rates as low as those in effect in Canada. He reminded his audience that comparison was being made only in rates, but that no mention was made of taxes, which he pointed out are considerably less in Canada.

"Our policy is to expect a fair, honest return on the investment of the men and women interested in our company," he said. "Beyond that the railroad managements have no right to go."

Although he predicted that the improvement of inland waterways probably is near realization, he questioned the advisability of the movement of dollars that will be spent on the waterways would be applied to the railroads instead, if the country wouldn't be better off. It would enable railroads to establish a lower rate schedule and offer better service at reduced costs.

"When the people realized all these facts, however, I am sure they will not permit the government to discriminate against the railroads any longer. American people have an innate passion for justice, and when they are informed of the injustice that is being inflicted against them, they will see that the government's policy is changed."

The railroads should spend approximately $500,000,000 annually in improvements in the middle west, he pointed out. If this much money was put into circulation every year, it would result in greater prosperity among the people and enable the roads to offer better and cheaper service," he said.

Mr. Sargent, a director of the United States Chamber of Commerce, was introduced by Attorney J. P. Frank, O. W. Thiede, retiring president of the Appleton chamber, presided at the meeting.

Mr. Sargent complimented Appleton on its scenery, its college and its spirit of cooperation in civic matters. "The community will grow only when its men work together for a common civic cause and Appleton

MOTOR CAR BUILDERS
IN WORLD STRUGGLE

New York—(AP)—An international struggle for supremacy in the world motor car market is developing between the principal manufacturers of the United States and those of England, France, Italy and Germany.

The Ford company's energetic efforts to plant subsidiaries at strategic points throughout Europe has spurred the General Motors corporation to contemplate counter-measures. Well informed Wall street sources understand that an additional flotation of shares in the Ford company of Germany, amounting to $800,000, will soon be made.

It is reported that an alliance is being formed between the General Motors corporation and the largest French motor car concern, the Citroen company. It is accepted fact by Wall street that President Sloan of the General Motors corporation is undertaking by the purchase of European companies or by agreement with them, to prepare for Ford's invasion of Europe.

shows that the men here have worked together."

Mr. Sargent pointed out the necessity of keeping a community's advantages before the world and suggested that there is considerable hope for the continued prosperity of Appleton. He said he expects to bring the board of directors of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad here late in the summer to look over Appleton.

SENATE KILLS BILL APPROVED BY VETS

Effort to Bring About Uniform Legislation Falls by Wayside

Madison—(P)—A bill supported by organized veterans of the World War and intended to strengthen the state law regarding the appointment of guardians for incompetent veterans, was defeated by the Senate Thursday.

The measure would have limited the number of veteran wards one guardian may have, and would have reduced the compensation received by guardians.

Friends of the bill declared it was supported by the American Legion and other veterans' organizations, as well as by the American bar association. They said its purpose was to make uniform the laws in various states dealing with the care of men injured in the government's military service.

The Senate Thursday sent to the attorney general an inquiry to determine whether the legislature may pass a bill increasing the salaries of Assemblymen and Senators and make it apply to those already serving.

Every since the public on April 2 approved increased pay for the lawmakers, they have been confronted with the statute which forbids legislators to accept positions, the salary for which has been increased while they were serving in the legislature.

One interpretation of the statute is that this session may increase the pay, and make it apply next session. Another, however, is that no member of the present body can ever take advantage of an increase voted by its members.

An official ruling on the question is to be made by the attorney general.

Final passage was voted by the Senate Thursday for the Hunt bill allowing county boards to increase the dog license fee in their counties.

It is intended to give boards in sheep-raising counties larger funds from which to compensate sheep-owners whose animals have been killed by dogs.

BILL MAKES IT EASIER FOR AGED TO GET HELP

Madison—(P)—The question whether poverty stricken aged persons can best be cared for by county poor farms or by financial aid under the old age pension law, stirred the Senate Thursday and brought from Senator M. F. White his first lengthy and heated address of the session.

The body had before it White's bill changing the law so a majority of a county board may vote to cooperate with the state in extending old age assistance, instead of the two-thirds majority now required by law.

To opponents of his bill, Senator White declared it is unreasonable that a bare majority of the board may appropriate hundreds of thousands of dollars for highway work, but a two-thirds majority be required for rendering aid to the aged.

Senator C. W. Hutchison's motion to kill the bill was defeated 14 to 10, and it was ordered engrossed and read a third time. Without a roll call, it was given final passage.

THE PRESIDENT TACKLES THE COURTS

No one will attempt to judge Mr. Hoover, more than any president, by the first few weeks or months of his term of office. But all must agree that so far his utterances have been clear, frank and straightforward; his acts apparently done solely with high-minded devotion to the public welfare.

It is significant that in all his public utterances his references to prohibition deal with that subject only as a part, and not necessarily a large part, of the general breakdown of our legal machinery. Whether the president has a much deeper and broader comprehension of the courts of the United States, the machinery which operates them, rusty and worn out in many respects as it is, than is generally held by laymen, or whether he is the recipient of excellent advice from those who do understand the truthful situation can be but a matter of passing opinion, but the good fact remains that Mr. Hoover has stepped out to courageously grapple with one of our most serious problems, that of the reform of our federal judicial system in all its branches so as to retain its excellent virtues while we rid ourselves of its many glaring defects. It is going to be a hard problem. There will be much opposition. The way ahead is not altogether clear. But Mr. Hoover's purpose is excellent because he proposes to make the federal courts again practical institutions for the accomplishment of that thing for which humankind has a ceaseless craving, the administration of justice.

It would appear that the president has in mind working along two lines, one of which has to do with weeding out those incompetent persons who have worked themselves into public service. This applies to some federal judges as well as to revenue collectors, or bureau chiefs. It is but a few years ago that a federal district judge in Illinois, English by name, resigned when charges were made against him in congress. It is but two weeks that another federal district judge in New York, Winslow by name, also resigned under similar conditions. It is hard to conceive a man occupying a high and important position resigning under fire except through a consciousness of guilt and a knowledge that trial before the senate would result in conviction. That such a condition has never existed in the higher federal courts is a matter of gratification but is directly traceable to the fact that appointment to the high positions is seldom made by the president except through a personal knowledge of the qualifications of the person appointed, a situation that does not exist and is not applied to district judges, most of whom are appointed by the president without any personal knowledge of their qualifications but upon the recommendations of men more or less in politics and who are too often guided in making their recommendations by considerations that should not guide them. No man should be appointed to a federal judgeship, whether district judge or higher, without a most careful and painstaking examination of his fitness for office, if for no other reason than that his appointment is virtually for life. Had any such examination been made into the qualifications of men like judges English and Winslow they never would have been appointed in the first place.

The next part of the president's program apparently has to do with the re-drafting or revamping of the rules of law and procedure that apply in federal court and to this end he is about to appoint a commission to inquire into all the facts and to state them to the public with recommendations concerning the correction of the abuses that exist. Some of the federal judicial machinery is clearly obsolescent. Rules are applied that date back to Jefferson's day and before. Many of them were made to cover conditions that no longer exist. Many of them fail to meet pressing conditions of a new character that do exist. Most of them are not only aged and outworn but insufferable. When it is found that legal rules make justice a mere byword, an interminable, expensive, impractical game of chess, the outcome of which no man can reasonably foretell nor even hazard a good guess, it is quite time that something should be done about it. Civilization has made great strides in the land but the federal courts and their judicial processes are away back keeping step with the age of the "covered wagon." For something like twenty years bar associations, legislators and students of our government have argued, debated and considered this situation, but nothing has been done. A situation is presented where an energetic man in the presidential office can really do, accomplish something of far-reaching import for the public good. It takes a man like Roosevelt to get this sort of a thing done. We rather incline to the opinion that Mr. Hoover can accomplish it.

CLEAN-UP WEEKS

One of the good features of spring clean-up campaigns is that they stir up general civic pride. Many energetic people are struck with the happy idea not only of removing dirt, rubbish and weeds, but also of replacing them with fresh paint and cultivated plants.

Thus it comes about that in one of the large cities where clean-up week is taken quite seriously, a group of oil company representatives, recently determined to have their service stations beautified with flowers. They all chipped in to a fund through which $550 and 10 bronze plaques will be given to the ten best looking gas stations. Said one of the men pushing this worthy cause, "We have about as poor a looking lot of oil stations as any of the large cities." That is a frank admission, but it is leading to great improvement.

Shrubs, lawns, trees, window boxes, fence and pole vines and flower beds all figure in the plans. By mid-summer gas stations in one community, at least, will resemble wayside cottages with posies everywhere. Gas stations have already gone in for architecture a bit. Now that they are going in for gardening and landscaping, there should be general rejoicing. Good gas and efficient service are not at all incompatible with attractive environment.

JONES LAW DISCRETION

Mrs. Willebrandt, assistant attorney-general of the United States in charge of prohibition enforcement, is proceeding cautiously with the Jones act.

This law, as the reader may have heard before, permits a maximum sentence of five years in prison and $10,000 fine. There seems to be considerable doubt in the public mind, and some doubt also in the official mind, as to just how far the department of justice may or should go in enforcing it. Mrs. Willebrandt settles that by a simple, practical rule for the guidance of federal prosecutors, urging them to use "wise discretion as to the character of cases in which they seek indictments for violations" during this test period. She tells them to apply the Jones law only to "good, strong cases involving commercialism."

Such procedure hits at the root of the evil and avoids any appearance of turning prosecution in to persecution. It is well for the prosecutors to be discreet, as requested. For if they apply so severe a law to petty cases, not involving public menace or moral turpitude, juries will not convict and the law will become a dead letter. Applied to stamp out the lawless commercial traffic in liquor, it may serve a good purpose and justify itself.

"Yes," said the commuter with pride.

Today's Anniversary

BOOTH'S CAPTURE

Sixty-four years ago today John Wilkes Booth, assassin of President Lincoln, was trapped by soldiers in a burning barn near Bowling Green, Va., and shot and killed when he attempted to leap from the hayloft and escape. With Booth was the youthful Herold, who was captured and later executed for his part in the conspiracy.

The capture and fatal shooting brought to an end a frenzied, nation-wide search for the assassin, which began 11 days before, when Booth shot Lincoln in Ford's Theater, Washington.

Many fanciful rumors have been spread to the effect that the man shot was not Booth, and that the latter made good his escape and lived to a ripe old age. These have been practically disregarded by historians, however, as pure fiction.

Herold, a weak character, would not have gone to his death on the gallows without having disclosed the fact that the man responsible for his downfall was free.

According to official records, Booth's body was buried under one of the ground floor cells of the old penitentiary at Washington.

THE HUNDRED PER CENT MOTHER IS COMING BUT NOT BACK

Reader gave me a good scolding because I alluded here to a scheme of mail order charlatans who follow up the first letter to the prospect with another in which the price of the treatment is reduced "several hundred per cent" as an inducement. This, my mathematical friend assures me, is impossible as there can't be more than 100 per cent of anything. In theory no doubt that is correct. But not in practice. Possibly not. Once I had a patient, oh, yes, I did, and naturally I was very anxious to get from my patient the only kind of advertising a physician can enjoy, so I gave the patient a wonderful new medicine and had the satisfaction of receiving several repeat orders for the medicine. Allowing nothing for the advertisement—you know we ethical doctors never pay for it—I figured up and found I had paid 68 cents for each batch of medicine for which the patient, maybe, would pay me 50 cents. If my net loss on this transaction was not more than 100 per cent, I'll undertake to eat some of that very medicine.

Some omniscient writer settles the evolution debate by remarking that he has never heard of a dog being turned into a goat, or something to that effect. If he will stick around a few hundred thousand years maybe he will see quite as startling changes. Under the microscope scientists may have such an advantage in observation for microscopic organisms pass through their life cycle and multiply thousands of times to one generation of dog or goat. Thus the student who bases his conceptions on observation rather than the promptings of his own inner consciousness, may actually watch the transmutation of one species of amoeba or monocyte into another, or of one type of germ, say a disease producing germ, into another type that is perfectly harmless to man, or vice versa. These actual transmutations are brought about by changes in the environment.

When you think of evolution there's no need to make a monkey of yourself.

Man is evolving, I hope, as rapidly as the infusoria or the microbes in the experiment, comparatively. Anyway, I am sure woman is. I have been watching her now for only a generation or two, and yet I can see a distinct change. She is getting bigger, stronger, better and more beautiful—all observers must agree to that. Never before has she been quite so fit as she is today for her part in the perpetuation of the species. Not only more fit for motherhood, but more capable of nursing her baby is the average woman today. There has been unmistakable improvement among women in that respect in our generation, and I call that evolution, development of a superior and more desirable womanhood, hence a better race.

As recently as 30 years ago young women of the best caste in many instances blantly declined to nurse their own infants on one ground or another that a recent, intelligent woman would hardly dare to confess now. That's evolution.

Thirty years ago one infant out of every six born alive failed to survive a year. Today only one in every 10 or 11 infants succumb in the first year. This great gain is largely due to the disposition and capacity of mothers to nurse their babies. Other things being equal the baby nourished at the mother's breast has three times as good a chance to live as the unfortunate infant that must be hand nursed.

The hundred per cent mother is on the way, thanks to education and evolution.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
What's a Little Anemia?
Kindly explain the difference between anemia and pernicious anemia and tell how one knows which one has. (E. W.)

Answer—Nearly all of us indoor dwellers have more or less anemia, but what of it? One can't tell which type of anemia, if any, one has. That is for the doctor to consider. I do not think you will gain anything by assuming that you are anemic and trying this or that alleged blood building remedy for the successful treatment of anemia depends entirely upon the determination of the cause in each instance and the proper remedy for that. There are innumerable causes, and no one is capable of diagnosing the nature and cause of his anemia—it is purely a medical problem. As a rule anemia is a minor, insignificant feature of illness or ill health. One should not be misled by the importunities of the quacks and nostrum vendors who harangue the lady about the importance of keeping up the strength of the blood. That is all buncombe. Never mind the strength or the "quality" of your blood—behave yourself and obey the simple rules of hygiene and the blood will be as strong and pure as an honest health expert could wish.

There You Are
I would like to discard corsets as you advise, but how to get rid of the hypo-gastric prominence acquired since the birth of my children? (Mrs. D. A. F.)

Answer—Any such prominence attained thru maternity is only made worse by corset or other artificial support. The way to avoid it is obvious. Celebrate the advent of the bimbo by throwing the corset in the ash can. This is no mere theory, you will find it is sound health advice based on the actual experience of many women who have gained their freedom in just this way. The first few days without the support are the hardest. After that your own muscles will take up the burden. Barring invalids under medical care, any woman who is not absolutely senile may discard "all corsets or similar harness and both look and feel more slender without 'em, if she has the determination to be self-supporting. If you have long depended on artificial support, you should wean yourself by easy stages—thus, leave off the support and go about your regular activities not longer than half an hour daily the first week, then one hour daily the second week, then two hours daily, then half the day, then most of the day, and after some six weeks you'll have the corset and harness people foaming at the mouth.

Adventures In The Library

By Arnold Mulder

A CARICATURE OF PRESIDENT LITTLE

A rather amazing novel recently made its appearance—not a great novel, only an amazing one. It is called "Wings of Wax" and it is by Janet Hoyt, obviously a pen-name. The sensational thing about this book is that for the main character the author has drawn on many of the surface characteristics of President Clarence Cook Little of the University of Michigan. Add to this the fact that the character is drawn with obvious malicious intent and you get an idea of what the book is like. I do not know who Janet Hoyt is but her book sounds as if she might have been connected with the University of Michigan at one time.

The man in the book is called Victor Harrison Marston. A very thin attempt is made to disguise the too obvious intent of the caricaturing the young president of the University of Michigan by giving the man golden hair instead of Little's black locks. The physical characteristics of the fictional president are mainly those of the late President Burton.

President Marston, like Little, was about 37 or 38 years old when he became the president of the great mid-western state university. He was the first president who was a scientist. He spent his vacations and leisure time in the laboratory, doing original research. He was an advocate of birth control, and the very arguments of President Little in favor of birth control are put into the mouth of P. President Marston.

He works out a revolutionary scheme of reorganizing the scholastic work of the university—again like Little. At a great many points the known public opinions and acts of Little are attributed to the fictional character.

The malice lies largely in the description of the personal life of President Marston. He is portrayed as a supreme egoist and selfish to the core, as a sentimentalist and a vapory windjammer. More seriously, as a man who is untrue to his wife and who has affairs with a number of women. Toward the end of the book he is forced to resign partly because of financial irregularities and partly because of his sexual irregularities. Before the news of his resignation is made public however he is killed in an auto accident. It will be seen from this bare outline that while President Little is aimed at, there is such wide divergence between him and the fictional character that the unfairness of the author's method is obvious.

The book holds the attention as a piece of somewhat sensational journalism—and very competent journalism at that. But it is so patently written for an ulterior purpose that it loses caste as a work of art. My main objection, on the score of art, is President Marston. He is supposed to be a scientist. But that kind of man would never go in for science. He is a sentimentalist who loves vapory generalizations. He can never be pinned down to a hard fact. He is completely and entirely hostile to the scientific spirit in everything he does and says.

Yet we are asked to believe that that kind of a man chose a scientific career in youth and that he spends his leisure hours in the laboratory. The author had to put that in because Little is known for it. If she had been building a character without a model, after the manner of a true artist, she would not have made him a scientist. President Little is genuinely a scientist, whatever his faults may be. President Marston could never possibly have been one.

The book will probably have a big run because of its deliberate sensationalism, but it takes more than sensationalism to make a really fine novel.

THE SPELLING CONTEST

Editor Post-Crescent—I wish to inform you, after reading the note pertaining to the spelling contest held at Oshkosh, that Gilbert Abraham was defeated by a pupil from Barron County in the following way. Rules for the contest are sent out by the Milwaukee Journal, and are to be observed by the judges.

One rule plainly states that "hesitancy" on the part of a speller for an unreasonable length of time will count as a miss. The present district champion from Barron County hesitated for so long a period that the next speller grew tired and spelled the word. Did the judges count it as a miss, no, I think they had not read that section in the rules. This rule is found in the third paragraph in the "special rules." Instead of it being counted as a miss he was given another word and here again rules were not followed. It is not stated when a speller misses a word, because he is not paying attention, or maybe he could not spell the word, should be given another word.

The two remaining spellers are not to spell orally, as this gives the last one an advantage. The two last spellers should have passed to the board and written the word. But here again rules were cast aside. If these two missed the word another word should be written until a champion was determined in this way.

When a protest was made it was stated that the judges should decide. But why is so important a question left to three judges when the Milwaukee Journal has sent out their decisions on these subjects.

Why didn't the judges study the rules carefully, or why couldn't a protest be given?

TOO SHOCKING

London—A story out of Sunderland is about a minister who sat opposite a very nice young girl, with short skirts, in a street car. He requested the young lady to cover up her exposed knees. The young lady, embarrassed, acted on the advice of others in the car, and refused. The minister appealed to the conductor, requesting him to put the girl off the car. The conductor replied: "I see much worse sights every day of my life. I can't put her off the car for that." The girl stayed on the car, but the minister got off.

UNIT AND LEGION TOLD ABOUT SERBIA AT FIDAC MEETING

Rev. F. S. Dayton Speaker of Evening at Annual Gathering in City

New London — The annual FIDAC night, observed internationally by units of the American Legion auxiliary, was held by the local unit Thursday evening at Legion hall. A large crowd was present, including members of the legion post, the unit and their guests. The Rev. Francis S. Dayton was the evening's speaker. He gave a survey of the geography and history of the organization and spoke in detail of the people of Serbia, the country in which the international FIDAC conference will be held this year. He outlined the people as a liberty-loving people, ready to fight for their country. With no manufacturing industries of any importance and practically no mining industries, tilling their farms they have had through generations developed into a large bony type of people. The country is located in what is known as "the fighting cockpit of the world." On the peninsula where world ends meet, Serbia stands between the fighting forces of Europe and Asia. But Serbia has never surrendered her national instinct, the speaker said, and when drawn into the strife has battled hard to preserve her independence. The talk was supplemented by Serbian folk songs and national anthems sung by the Rev. Henry P. Freeling, accompanied by E. L. Reuter. Other numbers on the program included vocal selections by Robert Putnam and solo dancing by Ruth Hanson. Lunch was served at the close of the meeting.

It is thought that heavy rains and frost caused a springing apart of the sewer sections. The break was discovered between W. Cook-st and the intersection of Highway 54.

RENEW STAMPEDE FOR SHORT WAVE CHANNELS IN U. S.

Inter-city Radio Telegraph of Cleveland Again Enters Application

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press.
Washington — The stampede for continental short-wave channels with which to establish nationwide radiotelegraph networks, momentarily stopped last December when the initial grant was made, is on again with the renewed application of the Inter-city Radio Telegraph of Cleveland for the right to broaden its present meagre facilities.

Backed by two of the largest motion picture producers, Warner Brothers Inc., and First National Pictures Inc., as well as strong interests will turn into the company's requests a block of more than 20 channels to be employed in serving about the same number of key cities throughout the country. If the applications are granted the New York interests will turn into the company's treasury the sum of $1,500,000 for the expansion. The investment is conditioned upon the grant of construction permits and assignment of wave lengths, however.

Several small communications companies, two of them in Chicago with which the Inter-city now has traffic agreements also are parties to the new enterprise, having as its objective the establishment of a network competitive with the wire line companies, and also with the newly organized Universal Wireless Communications Company Inc. of Buffalo. This latter company was awarded 40 channels with which it must connect 110 cities. This allocation created quite a stir and resulted in a congressional investigation since the Radio Corporation of America and Mackay Radio and Telegraph company also applicants were awarded nothing at that time. It is taken for granted, however, that they will be assigned channels in the near future.

IS WITH INTER-CITY
One of the companies working with the Inter-city is the Wireless

Telegraph and Communications company of Northbrook, a suburb of Chicago.

Headed by E. C. Cole, Jr., this company operates a single station which handles the surplus traffic of Inter-city. The New York interests also have an option on this station and its applications for 18 channels, which would be pooled with those of the Inter-city in setting up the new network. The Inter-city is now operating a ship-to-shore service on the Great Lakes and a point-to-point service between Cleveland, Detroit, Buffalo, Chicago, Columbus, Ohio, and Duluth, also has a working agreement with the Chicago federation of labor radio station.

Abel C. Thomas, secretary, and general counsel of Warner Brothers told the commissioner about the plans of the enterprise. The backers in addition to the motion picture companies, include Joseph A. Freid, radio manufacturer and three members of the New York stock exchange.

ITALY DEALS FIRMLY WITH BOOTLEG LIQUOR

Rome — (P) — A nation-wide campaign to clean up illicit liquor stills has been inaugurated by the Fascist government, in order to improve the health of Italians generally, and to make sure that foreign visitors during the forthcoming tourist season may be certain of obtaining unadulterated products when they order the spirits of their respective countries at Italian bars.

Already a big haul has been made at Pistoia, where a clandestine distillery of "grappa," that fiery water of the Apennines, was put out of commission. Another and no less fruitful raid was operated at Civitavecchia, where for a long time methylated alcohol and a bit of coloring mixture has been put into empty whisky bottles and then dumped on the Roman liquor market.

FARM RELIEF BILL WILL FACE SEVERE TEST IMMEDIATELY

Grain Traders Do Not Think Board Will Boost Prices in Wheat

BY OWEN L. SCOTT
(Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press.)
Chicago — When a farm relief bill finally runs the gauntlet of congress and receives the signature of President Hoover it will be confronted immediately with the problem of adding nearly twenty cents a bushel to the price of wheat, if grain farmers are to realize a profit on the crop now growing.

The action of prices on the Chicago board of trade—the grain barometer—indicates that future traders believe this task will not be accomplished, at least for the thriving winter wheat crop instead they have sent prices tumbling over 11 cents in two weeks, following President Hoover's exposition of his ideas on the subject of farm relief.

A basis for appreciation of the problem is afforded by the government. It conducted a survey of costs of production on 4,778 representative farms, during the 1927 crop year. This survey revealed that it costs the average farmer $1.18 to produce a bushel of wheat, 70 cents to produce a bushel of corn and 51 cents to produce a bushel of oats.

At present, cash wheat at terminal markets is selling generally for from $1.05 to $1.10. This means that the farmer in many instances would be paid less than $1 a bushel for old wheat. Future prices at Chicago on the July delivery, which represents the new crop winter wheat, are around $1.15. At this level the market is considered thoroughly liquidated and on a world price basis. But it is a price probably 10 to 15 cents higher than the farmer would receive for his grain on that basis.

BETTER PRICES DOUBTED

Prospects for an improvement in the price situation without artificial stimulation before the new crop moves to market, are not considered bright by traders. The government estimates that on present prospects a crop of 550,000,000 bushels of winter wheat will be grown. This big yield will come on top of an annual carry-over of nearly 200,000,000 bushels. Then in the northwest a big spring wheat acreage is planted, while Canada is starting off with plans for the biggest crop in history. As a result, the new farm board to be created if President Hoover has his way, will be expected to have difficulty meeting an immediate situation. Grain traders have been betting that the outcome would not be successful to the government in the first encounter with the winter wheat crop. They are more wary in dealing with the spring wheat situation, represented by the September delivery.

In corn there is scarcely a problem. Last year's tremendous crop has brought good prices and has been closely fed. Nearly eighty per cent of the corn production is fed to livestock and here prices are satisfactory, particularly for hogs, the big corn eaters. Prices have been well maintained over the price which the government estimates to represent the cost of production. In addition, planting of the new crop is being delayed by wet weather, increasing the bullish attitude of traders.

Oats are not in a satisfactory position, selling considerably under 54 cents which is estimated to represent the cost of producing them, but this problem is not a major one in agriculture. The big job is to add twenty cents to the present price of wheat, in time to give the winter wheat grower its benefit.

PRINCE CHICHIBU LIVES COMMON SOLDIER'S LIFE

Tokyo — (P) — Prince Chichibu, heir presumptive to the throne of Japan, has a daily luncheon which costs much less than that of the average American office worker. There he eats the regular luncheon of the college, a simple meal of rice, fish and vegetables, costing about 12 cents. The prince rises each morning at 7 o'clock, and always walks the two miles between his mansion and the college, where he must be in his place by 8:30.

AIRPLANES ARE TESTED FOR LIFE SAVING WORK

Sydney, Australia — (P) — A new idea in life-saving has been successful at Torrigal Beach here. An aeroplane took up a 500 yard life-line at one end of which was an inflated motor tire and at the other end an iron weight. The plane dropped the tire near a swimmer and then dropped the dumb-bell on the beach where rescuers were waiting to haul in the swimmer clinging to the inflated tire. Y. M. C. A. SPREADS GOOD WILL AMONG SOUTH AMERICANS

Argentine Worker Says Association Influence Is Growing

Through its endeavors to bring about the highest ethics in sports and the establishment of a high moral, ethical and educational character program, the Y. M. C. A. has established itself as an invaluable asset in the lives of South American people, F. W. Dickens, Y. M. C. A. worker for many years in the Argentine said Thursday afternoon as he discussed advancement of civilization in South America.

The success of the association's work in the Argentine has brought about a more friendly relationship between the United States and South America, he stated. The association should be considered one of America's most efficient "Ambassadors of Good Will," he said.

Many factors which until the recent good will tour of President Herbert Hoover, caused enmity between the two countries, Mr. Dickens said. "Press agencies, movies and radios have presented to South American people the perverted idea that America is 'Jazz mad' and a place where crime is abounding."

"The association's physical education program has done much to bring about a general uplifting of South American youth. Night life in the cafes furnished practically all of the recreation of the youth of that country. During the past 15 years there has been a decided change and the native are gradually leaning toward higher forms of recreation," he explained.

"When English teams first put on soccer demonstrations, South American natives yelled 'Crazy English,' and did everything in their power to belittle the efforts of the Brits. Today South America is producing some of the world's best soccer players."

"The Y. M. C. A. social service program is doing much to change the antipathy between the castes of people."

"There are now 14 association buildings in eight South American countries, and most of them are governed entirely by natives."

CHARGE LOCAL MAN ISSUED BAD CHECK

Claim William Bentle, Jr., Tried to Defraud Menasha Dealer

William Bentle, Jr., 22, Appleton was bound over for trial on May 16 on a charge of issuing a worthless check with intent to defraud, after a preliminary hearing in municipal court at Oshkosh Thursday morning.

The check involved is for $100, made payable to the Menasha Wholesale company, of which Joseph Luka is president and manager. It was on Luka's complaint that Bentle was arrested.

Judge Gess denied motions to dismiss the charge against Bentle despite the pleas of the defense attorney who claimed the prosecution had failed to show intent to defraud. The prosecution claimed Bentle had given him the check in payment for flour that had been delivered while the defense maintained that Bentle had issued the check as part payment of his account and therefore he was not guilty of the charge against him.

Bentle was in the bakery business at Neenah last August when the check was given to Luka. Attorneys for Bentle showed an opinion for the attorney general to the effect that a man cannot be held guilty on worthless check charges unless it can be proven that the check was given for payment of goods delivered at the time it was issued.

The fire department was called to the Interlake Pulp and Paper company plant on E. John-st about 9 o'clock Thursday morning when a sulphur bin started burning. The blaze was put out after 40 minutes fighting by one company of firemen. The damage was slight.

Tax Wizard

Alexander W. Gregg, 29-year-old tax wizard, who resigned as solicitor of the Treasury Department in 1927, is being mentioned prominently in Washington for the post of revenue commissioner, to succeed David H. Blair, resigned. Gregg was appointed assistant to Andrew Mellon in 1924 and at the outset displayed an amazing grasp of the income tax problem. He gained prominence in 1927 when he handled for the government the greatest tax appeal in history—the Ford minority stockholders' action at Detroit, which involved $30,000,000. Gregg's home is in Palestine, Tex.

AWARD CONTRACTS FOR GRAVELING HIGHWAYS

Bids for furnishing gravel for improving Grand Chute highways were opened at a meeting of the town board Thursday evening. The contract for furnishing gravel for all highways east of Highway 47 was given to Frank Murphy, town of Freedom; Charles Peters, Fremont, was awarded the contract for furnishing gravel for highways west of Highway 76. The contract for furnishing gravel for roads between Highway 47 and 76 will be given to one of two lowest bidders, Louis Peterson or Charles Peters, after the town board has inspected the pits owned by the men. The inspection will be made next Monday. All bids for cinders were rejected because none were for a sufficient supply.

Sportsmen Have Yet To "Find" Rat River

BY B. A. CLAFLIN

One of the few trout streams in Wisconsin which is yet unexplored by untried waders is the Rat river. Although this fine stream rises in Florence county, and naturally, as the season advances, the trout find their way up into that county, the best stretches for fish are farther down in Forest county.

Three miles east from Blackwell Junction, which is on the North-western railroad, is the little inland village of Blackwell, where the Plummer-Steger Lumber Company has its mill and other holdings. This company owns large tracts of timberland through which the Rat flows to its confluence with the Peshtigo. The standing timber is hardwood, hemlock and the inferior types of conifer for the most part, although there are some sticks of valuable white pine still scattered along the river.

How this ever escaped the axe of the lumbermen we are at a loss to understand. Anyhow it looks good to see them and they serve as a reminder of the heartless desecration which has taken place throughout the north country during the last few years.

Up to recent years this turbulent little stream, from Blackwell down to its mouth, has been a wonderful producer of big Speckled trout. I was the first "city man" to fish the Rat, some twenty years ago. I learned of its possibilities from a timber cruiser, and with a couple of friends invaded the region with the finest of success. We made wonderful catches until others began to follow and to spread the news. Then the fishing suffered accordingly.

MANY RAINBOWS
It is well known that the Peshtigo, into which the Rat flows, has always been noted for its Rainbows, but, for some unexplained reason, they do not ascend the Rat. I have fished this stream for many years, in fact, away back during the time when practically no others visited it save the Pottawatomie Indians who lived on their little reservation on Thunder Rapids. And during these years I don't think I have taken a dozen Rainbows from its waters. But the Fontinalls, Speckled trout, would easily compare with the best ones of the Brule river in its palmiest days, and in a limited way with those of the famous Nepigon of Canada.

The Rat is an early stream. After the first run of April and May the season, so far as the lower stretches are concerned, is over. Perhaps, having fished this stream before anyone else except the Indians knew of it, I expect too much. The same rushing, foaming rapids are there; the same huge rocks with their back eddies, ideal for big trout; and the deeper and more quiet stretches where the big ones should loaf about in quest for surface flies still invite the fly fisherman; but the fish are fewer and not so large, although, as I said, it is an early stream and good catches are still being taken.

But in those early, golden days of pioneering, when we packed in pine miles to Thunder Rapids, we brought out the trout—at times our catches would average fish of at least a pound each. Small fish were seldom taken. On one occasion three of us brought out twenty one fish, the smallest of which measured fourteen inches in length.

RECEIVE WARNING ON 2 NEW COUNTERFEITS

Notice was received at the Appleton post-office this week from the federal postal department of two new counterfeit bills in circulation. The first is a $20 federal reserve note drawn on the Federal Reserve bank of New York; 1914 series; check letter C; face plate no. 316; back plate no. 1003; signed by Frank White, treasurer of the United States; A. W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury; and bears a portrait of Cleveland. This specimen will easily deceive the unwary holder of currency. The second note is a $20 gold certificate; series 1922; check letter undistinct, probably P; face and back plate numbers missing; signed by H. C. Speciman, register of the treasury; Frank White, treasurer of the United States; and bears a portrait of Washington. This is an extremely crude note and should not deceive those who are careful.

BOY, 10, KILLED IN FALL OFF MOUNTAIN

Former Residents Lose Son in Accident in California

Kenneth Raymond, 10 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Raymond of Hamburg, Calif., formerly of Appleton, was killed April 2 when he fell 15 feet from a mountain side into a narrow road while picking flowers on his way home from school.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond lived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Wallace at 710 W. Winnetago-st. and 720 N. Oneida-st until last August when they moved to a fruit ranch at Hamburg. Kenneth attended the Fifth ward school in this city and was in the fourth grade. A number of school children were with him when the accident occurred and it is thought that he stumbled on a root or rock and lost his balance. Burial was on the family's ranch. Mr. Raymond, father of Kenneth, was employed with the C. R. Meyer Construction company and Donald, a brother, was a clerk at the Northern hotel, while living in Appleton.

YOUNGSTERS ARE FINDING SPORT PAINTING BIRDS

Their birds in the air may look like that Zepplins and the birds on the ground like wooden rocking horses, but to the kiddies who painted them and the fond parents of said youngsters the fresco paintings by the pupils of the Columbus kindergarten youngsters have the ex-actness of a Corot or a Watteau interpretation of spring. are twice the size of the one walking on the ground and the tulips look like a cyclone-swept wheat field. The Columbus gasoline launch made from blocks, with its steering wheel, American flag and cabin, was just recently razed to make way for a hat shop, to be constructed by the boys. In between the lessons of the boys, the children have complete sets of bedding for the doll ground of blue sky and green grass, busy and cradle, the latter made by tulips, trees, birdhouses and robin Billy Morris, the children have great flourishing of the large brush, several child stories have been dra- maticized.

DIG ISSUES AWAIT CONSIDERATION AT NEXT CONSISTORY

Catholics to Study Questions Pertaining to College of Cardinals

BY MILTON BRONNER
London — The next consistory of the Roman Catholic church, which will meet at Rome on May 29, is expected to deal with some of the greatest questions now agitating the church.

These questions have to do with the makeup of the college of cardinals, which now has 12 vacancies. They can be stated as follows:

First—Will the international character of the church continue to be emphasized by the presence of a majority of non-Italians in the college? Second—Will the increasing request of Catholics of outside countries, particularly the United States, for a greater influence in the conduct of the church be heeded? Third—Will the present overwhelming predominance of Italian cardinals in the great governing bodies of the church be continued or diminished?

No new cardinals have been created since 1927, and it is assumed that a number of new ones will be named at the coming consistory. The nationalities of the men elevated to the red hat may give a picture of the attitude of Pope Pius XI toward these questions.

In 1886 Sixtus V fixed the maximum number of cardinals at 70, of whom six were to be cardinal bishops, 50 cardinal priests and 14 cardinal deacons. The six cardinal bishops must reside in Rome and each occupied one of the six suffragan sees of the Roman diocese. Of the cardinal priests, 33 occupy archbishoprics or metropolitan sees in various parts of the world. Thus Cardinals Hayes is archbishop of New York.

All the important administrative machinery of the church is centered in Rome. Thus there are 12 "Congregations," of the Holy Office, the Congregation of the Holy Office has to do with the ethical teachings of the church. The Congregation of the Consistory is entrusted with general oversight of the dioceses scattered all over the world, the appointment of bishops, etc.

But there is an even more important piece of machinery known as the Tribunals of the Curia—the Apostolic Penitentiary, the Sacred Roman Rota and Apostolic Signatura. The first has jurisdiction over all questions of conscience presented to the Holy See; the second is really the law court of the Vatican and deals with all contentious cases; the third is a sort of court of appeals from decisions of the Rota.

Now up to 82 years ago Italian cardinals not only practically dominated all these important bodies, but also the Cardinals' college. Thus in 1846 there were 62 cardinals of whom 54 were Italians.

Today there are 32 foreigners to 26 Italians. The foreigners consist of four Germans, two English, two Austrians, one Belgian, one Brazilian, one Canadian, four Spaniards, four Americans, seven Frenchmen, one Dutchman, one Hungarian, two Poles, one Portuguese and one Czechoslovakian.

In past times there have been many popes who were not Italians and there is nothing to prevent a non-Italian successor to the present pope when he dies.

BILL WOULD EXCUSE JUSTICES FROM RUNNING

Madison —(P)—Supreme court justice Chester A. Fowler, just appointed, would not have to run for election to that position of a bill by the committee on elections is adopted by the senate and the governor. The bill inserts in the law on election of the justices, the provision that none shall be elected in 1930.

The committee on commerce and manufactures presented a bill allowing separate accountings by counties instead of by "political subdivisions"—towns, cities and villages, even school districts—of reports of income for assessment.

The elections committee presented another bill advancing the date of the primary from the first to the third Tuesday of September and providing for party conventions instead of after-primary conventions of nominated candidates. Avowed candidates who have filed an affidavit to that effect, would attend the convention, and would be paid five cents a mile for coming to it.

The elections committee presented a bill specifically prohibiting a dam in the Wolf river in certain parts of Shawano and Oconto counties. This matter had previously been discussed in another bill.

Under another bill just before the lower house inmates of the house of correction might be transferred to the state prison if the board of control finds their continued presence is detrimental to the other inmates or to the discipline of the institution. Such transfer would be only by consent of the governor.

15 COUNTY BOYS WOULD GO TO CAMP

Make Application for Admittance to Fort Sheridan Next Summer

Fifteen Outagamie-co youths have made application for admittance to Citizens' Military Training camp at Fort Sheridan, Ill., according to Raymond F. Dohr, chairman of the committee in charge of county enrollments.

The county quota is 25 men and Mr. Dohr expects it will be filled within the next two weeks. The camp period for Outagamie-co boys opens at Fort Sheridan on July 23 and will continue until Aug. 23.

Fond du Lac-co is leading in the fourth district of the 101st division of Citizens' Military Training camps, with 42 applications. The Fond du Lac-co quota is 40, but unless all other quotas in the district are filled the two additional boys will be admitted to camp, according to Mr. Dohr.

The following counties are included in this district: Brown, Calumet, Door, Fond du Lac, Green Lake, Kewaunee, Manitowish, Outagamie, Sheboygan, Waupaca, Waushara and Winnebago. Winnebago-co has 15 boys enrolled and the quota is 35, while Brown-co has 22 applications. The district quota is 245 men, and thus far the total number of enrollments is 105. The La Crosse district is leading the division with 224 enrollments. The District quota was 220.

LAUD LA FOLLETTE AS HIS STATUE IS GIVEN TO NATION

Family of Senator Hears
Badger Praised as Friend of People

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
Washington—Today the dynamic marble statue of Robert Marion La Follette dominates statuary hall in the nation's capitol, where it belongs, as Claude Bowers said in concluding the unveiling ceremonies yesterday. Because to his country he gave "his mind, which was of the best, his heart, which was of the warmest, and his soul, which was of the whitest."

An unprecedented throng packed the hall and its narrow galleries throughout the two hour ceremonies. Equally noticeable in the great gathering were those who fought beside "fighting Bob" for years and those who fought against him; those who loved him and those who denounced him. All his children were there and one of his grandchildren, but Mrs. Belle Case LaFollette was not there. One son, his successor in the senate, presided over the ceremonies. The other, Philip, told of the gratitude of the family at this tribute. Upon of the statue was a wreath of red roses and white lilies sent by the Wisconsin congressional delegation. The glare of klieg lights predicted the motion pictures of the event to be shown throughout the country.

Dr. A. Eustace Haydon spoke of him as the representative of the ideal that government is an intelligent method of achieving progress of humanity; justice Charles H. Cushman told of his service to Wisconsin; Gilbert E. Roe told how he always saw a little farther than most men; Victor A. Olander told how he found American seamen slaves and left them free; Mrs. Mabel Corey Costigan told how those who sought social amelioration and more freedom for more people invariably found him their champion; Edward Keating reminded the audience that he was on the people's side all the time.

Characterizing La Follette as "that rarest and most valuable of human phenomena—a scientific sentimentalist," Claude G. Bowers, editorial writer and historian of democracy, in a stirring and eloquent speech described his service to his state and his country. Summing up the story of his early battles in Wisconsin, Bowers said: "He found Wisconsin a feudal barony;

Gift to Nation

This marble statue of the late Senator Robert M. La Follette was formally unveiled and presented to the United States at elaborate ceremonies in Statuary hall yesterday afternoon. One of the principal addresses was given by Claude Bowers, New York, keynoter at the Democratic National convention, who praised La Follette as the friend of the common people. The statue, a huge marble affair weighing tons, was made by Jo Davidson, (below) famous American sculptor and friend of La Follette. The work shows La Follette as an alert, militant figure gripping the arms of his chair as he leans forward in the tense attitude that was characteristic of him in the Senate chamber.

He left it a democracy. He found it in the grasp of privilege; he restored it to the service of the people and then, as Jefferson had done before, he went forth to battle to spread to blessings of real democracy to every state beneath the flag. Hate

NEW YORK SAYING TIME, MONEY BY JURY "POOLING"

Advocates Are Enthusiastic
Over New Experiment
After Week's Trial

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press.

New York—The new system of jury "pooling" during the first week of its trial in the supreme court of New York county has saved the city from $70 to $80 a day in jurors' fees, speeded up court procedure and cut down the sacrifice of businessmen's time for jury duty from 15 to 20 per cent.

The test has been made in eight departments of the supreme court. Its advocates, enthusiastic over the experiment, see the possibility of relieving court congestion and bringing about a generally more effective functioning of the jury system if the plan is extended to other courts.

Under this system, talesmen from all departments of the court are assembled in a large room and impaneled for forthcoming cases as construction crews might be assembled and assigned to various jobs. They are then allowed to return to their homes, thus saving the time of the jurors and the expense entailed in the old method of drawing the jury in each particular court with the case in session. It is now estimated that the plan saves an average of one-hour time in each case.

The proposal was put forth last December and almost immediately received the support of the New York county lawyers association. A resolution supporting it was adopted and Franklin Nevins was made chairman of a committee to assist in putting it into operation. This move was due partly to the increasing reluctance of business men to accept jury duty, and partly to the increasing congestion in the courts, with the urgent necessity of greater speed in clearing the calendars. It is estimated that with the system in full operation about one half as went before to prepare for his reception and with the old gay smile upon his fighting face, he went forth fearlessly to meet it."

Governor and Mrs. Kohler left Friday for Madison, while most of the rest of Wisconsin visitors are remaining for a reception to be given this afternoon by Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., Fola La Follette, and Mary La Follette Sucher.

many talesmen will be required as under the old method.

COURTS IN SPOTLIGHT
Whether stirred or not by president Hoover's appeal for better citizenship, and participation in the reform of judicial procedure, New York has been turning the spotlight on its courts and police methods during the last few weeks. Simultaneously with the tryout of the jury pooling system, The New York Rotary club began a campaign for valuation of the jury, with the organization of the legion of volunteer jurors. Those who accept membership are pledged to do jury service, at a time which he indicates. He will be not only a juror, but a citizen observer, reporting on forms supplied by the organization on various details of court procedure, including the treatment of witnesses, the conduct of court attendants and similar details. It is hoped by this method, not only to assemble useful data bearing on waste and delay in court procedure, but to enlist a more responsible element of citizenship as jury personnel.

New York City has five times as much litigation as the city of London and the heightening interest of businessmen in the courts is in part a defensive movement. According to Edward H. Wilson, vice-president of the Brooklyn Bar Association, about one half of the court cases in New York are due to automobile accidents. In the supreme court, says Mr. Wilson, three fourths of the jury cases are accident cases and of these three fourths are automobile cases.

Police Commissioner Whalen, while the first fury of his raids has subsided, is keeping the courts busier than they used to be, and, under the nuisance act, there is rapidly increasing volume of petty liquor cases. The federal courts almost continually are assisted by outside judges and recently found it necessary to procure two additional judges.

While New York in the past has experience with the "professional" jury system, it is now apparently in on a general renovation, both as to quality of jurymen and encroachments on the time of employed persons or business men.

SEYMOUR KIWANIANS OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY

Seymour-Kiwanians from Appleton, Green Bay, Neenah and Menasha with their ladies gathered here on Tuesday evening to help the local club celebrate its first anniversary. A dinner was served by the ladies of the Methodist church to over two hundred persons at the I. O. O. F. hall. Dr. J. R. Denyes of Appleton was toast master. The speakers were Norton Williams of Neenah and Archie Luedke, lieutenant governor of Beaver Dam. The guests were entertained by Wyman Huettli with violin solos, vocal solos by Raymond Walsh of Appleton and vocal solos by E. Stiller of Green Bay. Neenah also contributed to the program in the form of the Hungry Five. Miss Eileen Hanson sang vocal solos and three character sketch readings.

GERMANS PLAN NIGHT AIR PASSENGER LINES

Berlin—(AP)—Night passenger air lines soon will be inaugurated between Berlin and the Polish frontier, and between Berlin and southern Germany. The Lufthansa is also at work devising a night route from Hanover to the western frontier.

The success of the night route to Russia has encouraged the Lufthansa to extend its system of men and other powerful lights greatly, and plan in time to cover Germany with a network of illuminated routes.

Travelers from the Scandinavian countries will, before many months are over, be able to leave Stockholm or Oslo in the mornings, arrive at Berlin before darkness sets in, depart there on a night route, and reach Munich, Frankfurt, Stuttgart, or even Switzerland by the next morning.

A further innovation in aviation is a project of the North German Lloyd to equip all the steamers that are to go on pleasure cruises next summer with airplanes so the participants in a cruise may obtain a good birdseye view of the countries they touch.

Vikes End Spring Grid Practice With Game Saturday

American Golfers Lead In Ryder Cup Matches

RASMUSSEN LIKES OUTLOOK FOR FALL; TO HAVE BIG LINE

St. Mitchell and Laird Captain Blues, Grays During Battle

LAWRENCE college gridlers will wind up their spring practice Saturday afternoon at George A. Whiting field when the squad is divided into two teams and the Blues battle the Grays. The teams will be led by Capt. Mitchell and St. Mitchell and Laird, both ends on the 1928 squad last fall.

The Vike gridlers started their practices two weeks ago 25 strong and have stuck to the number throughout the period, learning fundamentals of the game, practicing a few of the things learned last year and reviewing plays.

Coch Rasmussen is enthusiastic about the outlook for next fall and is bubbling over with commendation for the way his proteges have gone about the work. While he still will have to worry about backfield men for next fall, most of his backs being members of the Vike track team, his worries about linemen are almost over.

Indications are next fall's line will be big and rangy and powerful. He has a gang of six footers for the end and tackle positions, a couple good centers and plenty of short, stocky fighters for the guards.

Saturday's game will begin at 3 o'clock or as soon after the inter class track meet as possible with Werner Witte, Oshkosh normal, referee. John Roach, former Notre Dame star as umpire and Jack Nohel, Stout Institute, headlinesman. The lineup of the Blue team shows Miller center; Vincent and Packard, guards; Hovde and Culmer, tackles; Laird and Steinberg, ends; Lund, fullback; Pfeiffer, halfback; Ryan, quarter; Schweiger, halfback; Altman, center; Hall, guard; Barclay and Hamilton, halfbacks; Wurtz, tackle.

The Gray team will have Morton, center; Voeckel and Amundson, guards; Bickel and Coffey, tackles; St. Mitchell and Hessler, ends; Hales, fullback; Trunkle, quarter; Clin, fullback; Gibb, halfback; Schiebler, guard; Davis, halfback; Middleton, guard and Enright, halfback.

3,300 ATHLETES AT PENNSYLVANIA RELAY

Chief Interest in Decathlon and in Appearance of Nurmi

Philadelphia—(P)—More than 3,300 athletes from 500 colleges and high schools were here Friday for tests of speed and stamina at the University of Pennsylvania's track and field carnival. The two-day meet has drawn entries from all sections of the United States and from Hawaii and Canada.

Interest Friday centered chiefly on the decathlon, the high hurdles, the college medley relays and the appearance of Paavo Nurmi, the Phantom Finn, who hoped to set up new records for the two-and-three-mile events.

Keen competition was forecast in the decathlon, with Tim Churchill, Oklahoma, and Barney Berlinger, Pennsylvania, the favorites among a dozen other all-around performers. Sol Furth, New York university, loomed as favorite in the 120-yard hurdles in a field carrying 25 other entries.

The quarter-mile relay championship revealed another class list of contenders. Nineteen teams were entered.

Sports Question Box

Question—It is said by A that the only time a ball is dead is when the batsman is hit by it. Is that right?

Answer—No the ball is dead when a balk is announced.

Question—Do you think Kid Chocolate is a genuine bantamweight? That is, can he make 118 pounds and still be strong?

Answer—No. Chocolate may be able to do 118 pounds, but it is a question if he would retain his effectiveness. His best weight is 120 pounds.

Question—Why do the British insist on wooden shaft clubs in golf tournaments, while Americans can play with wood or steel?

Answer—Just a funny British notion.

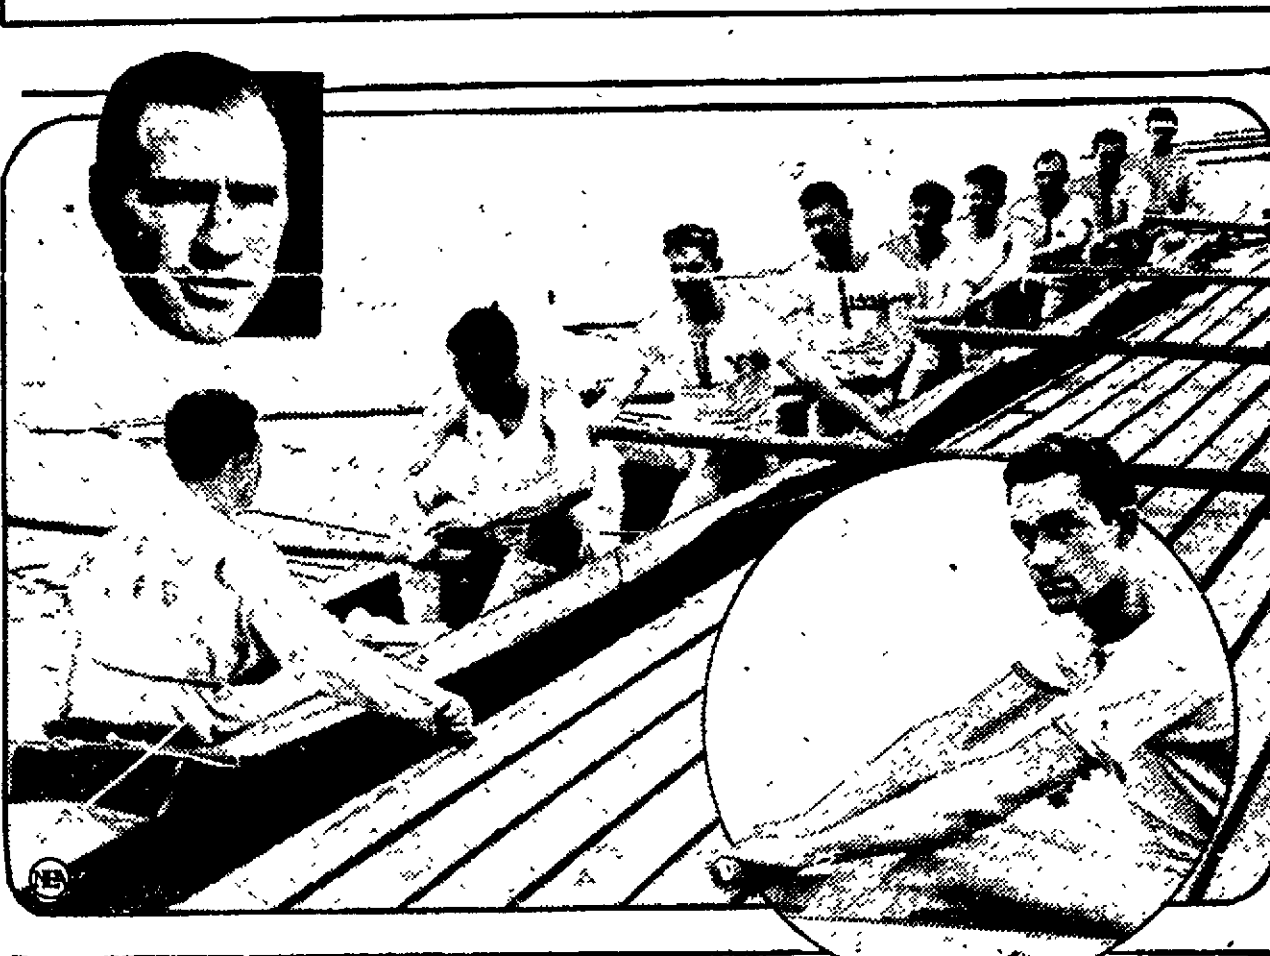

Question—How would you rank the contenders for the featherweight title?

Answer—Eddie Shea and Benny Hax are even up with a mighty good chance of lifting the title. Both are hard punchers.

Question—Runner is on second and another on third. Runner on second attempts to steal third. He touches the base and the pitcher who has the ball in his possession touches home plate. Runner who tries to steal third goes back to second. May he go back after having touched third base?

Answer—Yes. That is not running the bases backward. He is trying to correct an error.

Paul Waner's Batting Not Worth $25,000 Now

BY JOHN B. FOSTER

Copyright 1929

NEW YORK—Pittsburgh fans are groaning these days when they think of the huge sum of money that Paul Waner is drawing for the privilege of staging his present batting slump.

Paul Waner declined to sign a contract early in the spring. It was said that he asked for $25,000. This demand was based of course, on the fact that he led his league in batting in 1927 and was only nosed out by Rogers Hornsby last year. To do that, of course, he had to bat well over 300.

Today he is batting around .225 and it follows that he is not getting the Pittsburgh team in the weighty manner in which he was expected to do. There is little doubt that he will bat better as the season progresses but the trouble is

NOT ONE PHONEY

How many fixed fights were you ever in? Jack Britton was asked by an expert during the course of a fanning bee in Miami Beach before the Sharkey-Stribling fight.

Britton, it must be explained, is a former welterweight champion of the world, an old man who is still fighting and a boxer regarded as one of the cleverest that ever pulled on a glove.

"I never was in a fixed fight," Britton replied in his quiet gentlemanly way, but there was a spark of intense resentment in his eyes. "I have been fighting longer than the record books show and I never have been in a fight that wasn't on the level."

"There may have been a lot of comments made about all the fights I had with Ted Lewis and the one I had with Benny Leonard when he caught me for the welterweight championship. But I'll tell you that the hardest fights I ever had were against Lewis. He wasn't a sportsman and any man who ever fought him will tell you that."

LOOKING FOR AN OUT

"There was a lot of talk about that Leonard fight," Britton went on. "There was some betting that Leonard would win and when he fouled me and lost there was a lot of gossip that we had fixed it and that we had cleaned up. I don't know anything about the betting. I know that I didn't have enough money on hand to bet a dime and that Dan Morgan (this manager) was broke. I never have been able to believe that Leonard wanted an out because I know he tried to knock me out many times in the early part of the fight."

"I was tired late in the fight and he came in on the stomach with a punch that nearly ruined me. I was a mile ahead on points and knew that I couldn't blow the decision if I was able to finish on my feet, so I went to my knee for a count. Leonard walked around the referee and cuffed me a light punch on the head and he was declared the loser on a foul."

"I guess that at that late time in the fight he knew that he couldn't win and that he preferred to lose on a foul. But I'll say this for him, he wasn't dirty about it. He said to me that he hit me where there was no chance to hurt me."

HE CARRIED SOME

"I've carried young fighters," Britton said. "And I don't think there is anything wrong in saving a kid from punishment when there is that Pittsburgh needs Paul Waner at Paul Waner's best right now and not later in the season.

The Cubs are far too strong this year for any other team to take any chances.

Paul Waner was not at Paso Robles to practice with the team. He remained in Oklahoma City and flung ultimatums at the team owners. A good batter does not do all the spring practice he can get.

So he is regretting missing the spring practice right now and may regret it a lot more before the season is over.

Paul Waner forgot, when he stood his team up for more money that he started batting slowly last year and part of the blame that Pittsburgh did not come through in 1928 was his. When he started batting better last year the Pirates started to climb and were a very threatening team before the season had closed.

What might they not have done had he been in first class trim at the start of the season?

He should have taken into consideration this year that more valuable to him than a contract at a high figure would be membership in a team in the world series money.

His batting value would go up as the Pirates climbed into the seas of the mighty. Waner is not the type of ball player who can make himself individually valuable. He needs the rest of the team to back him up.

It is a question if Paul Waner is worth $25,000 at the Pittsburgh club. Several managers and old ball players have criticized Pittsburgh for coming to his terms.

TIGERS IN 5 TO 0 WIN OVER INDIANS

Three Run Rally Enables Browns to Beat White Sox, 3 and 2

Detroit—Emil Yde, former Pittsburgh Pirate and Indianapolis southpaw, pitched the Detroit Tigers to a shutout victory over the Cleveland Indians here Thursday afternoon in his first start of the season. The score was 5 to 0.

Yde kept the Cleveland hits well scattered, and his mates gave him a three run lead in the first inning, which was two runs more than he needed for victory. The Tigers scored two more in the fifth inning. The Tigers pounded Willie Huddell, Indiana's pitcher, for four hits to gain their three runs in the first inning. Rice started it off with a triple to center. Gehring, followed with a single that scored Rice, and stole second. Alexander and McMahon added singles.

Batteries—Cleveland: Huddell, Hodapp and L. Sewell; Detroit: Yde and Phillips.

BROWNS 3; SOX 2

Chicago—A three run rally in the first inning gave the St. Louis Browns a 3 to 2 victory over the White Sox Thursday. The Browns pounded Ted Lyons for four hits to lead their scoring in one frame. Clancy got one of Chicago's runs with a homer in the first.

Batteries—Chicago: Lyons, Connolly and Crouse, and Autry; St. Louis: Gray and Schang.

BREWERS GET COX, HURLER, FROM CHI SOX CLUB OF A. L.

Louisville Kernels Are Beaten by St. Paul in Tenth Frame

TOLEDO, O.—A torrential down-pour that rendered Thursday's scheduled contest with the Mud Hens null and void at noon, gave Manager Jack Lellivelt a chance to take further stock of his outfit and subsequently he announced two deals.

Neither, however, is liable to affect one way or another the slim flag possibilities of the Brewers. In one he disposed of Heinie Batch, utility infielder, to Memphis of the Southern league, and the other brings Leslie Cox, a second string pitcher with the White Sox, for a month's trial.

Roy (Bill) Ryan, who received credit for Wednesday's win over the Hens will be sent back at them Friday in an effort to give the Home Brew brigade the odd game of the three set series. If Bill comes through against his old teammates it will mark his third straight win of the short season.

Paul Zahniser, veteran St. Paul right hander, joined Stengel's forces Thursday morning and will most likely face Roy (Bill) on the slab. Bud Parmelee, the big transfer man, or Gob Buckeye are the other local possibilities.

Charley Robertson is "lone wandering but not lost" somewhere between here and New York, but it is still expected that he will arrive in time to pitch one of the double headers Memorial day with the Kaysee Blues.

SAINTS WIN IN TENTH

Louisville—St. Paul jumped on Walter Beck who had just reported here Thursday from Buffalo and in the tenth inning scored four runs to beat Louisville, 3 to 5. Maple, DeBerry and Cullop were unable to hold the Apostles. Although in trouble throughout, Polli went the route for the winners.

Batteries—St. Paul: Polli, Tesmer and Fenner; Louisville: Espie, DeBerry, Cullop, Beck and Bird.

ENGLISH, YANKEE PROS BATTLE FOR HONORS 3RD TIME

Diegel, Espinosa Are Seven Up at End of First Eighteen Holes

MORTONTOWN, ENGLAND—(P)—Americans led in three matches and were squared in the fourth at the end of the first round of the Ryder cup match four-somes being played here Friday.

More than 2,000 persons were on the course when the first foursome went out to play for the Ryder cup which is emblematic of the world's professional team golf championship.

As the first 18 holes were ended, Leo Diegel and Al Espinosa of America were seven up on the British pair, Aubrey Boomer and George Duncan. Johnny Farrell and Joe Turnesa were one up on Archie Compston and C. A. Whitcombe. Gene Sarazen and Ed Dudley were square with their British opponents. The Mitchell and Fred Robson while Walter Hagen and John Golden were two up on Ernest Whitcomb and Henry Cotton.

The sun was shining and the absence of high wind assured well for American chances. There was a light rain during the night but not sufficient to allow the Americans to play their favorite shot of pitching the ball to pin with sufficient reverse to hold it dead. The greens were hard and fast and it was only possible to run up to most of them.

The international series consists of four two-ball foursomes of 36 holes the first day and eight 36-hole singles the second, each match counting one point. Halved matches count a half point for each team. The Ryder series, in competition Friday for the third time, previously has been split between American and England. The first contest in 1926 the British won, 10 to 2 to 1 to 2. In 1927, when the matches were played in this country, the Americans won, 9 to 2 to 2 to 2.

Cards out after eighteen holes:

Volleyball Team Has Many Vets

FIVE of the local Y. M. C. A. net ballers who left Friday afternoon for Beloit to compete with 12 other teams throughout the state in the volleyball tournament on Saturday are veterans of title battles of the past five years and the captain has gone through six titles.

Adam C. Remley, captain of the local aggregation, who Wednesday evening sent his leather-pushers through their final workout, has competed in state matches at Green Bay, Madison, Milwaukee, Fond du Lac and Racine. He also was a member of the local team which in 1921 played in the National Y. M. C. A. tournament at Fort Wayne, Ind.

Guy Barlow and Fred Schlitz are veterans of six state machines, while Dr. R. V. Landis and John Bartman have each battled their way through five tournaments.

Two new players, Kenneth St. Claire, and Gilbert Stevens were added to the local team this year, and during the past season have made an excellent showing, according to A. P. Jensen, physical director at the local association building.

Los Angeles—Matchmakers of the Olympic auditorium announced that Tod Morgan, junior lightweight champion, had been signed to defend his title against Baby Sal Sorio, San Bernardino, California, Mexican, on Monday night, May 20. The bout will be held at Wrigley Field, with the weights at the championship limit of 130 pounds.

Under the terms Morgan is to receive 60 per cent, of the gate receipts, but out of this he will pay Sorio ten per cent in the event the fight ends in victory for the champion or a draw. If the challenger wins Morgan retains his 60 per cent and a bonus of $10,000 will be paid him by Sorio.

DRAKE RELAYS HOLD MIDWEST INTEREST

Indications Are New Records Will Be Established in Many Events

Des Moines, Iowa — (AP)—Twenty six hundred athletes, representing approximately 300 educational institutions Friday vied for honors in the twentieth annual Drake university relays.

Most of the athletes arrived Thursday, no small number taking a brief but brisk workout on the stadium track in the afternoon. The rest flocked into Des Moines Friday, and before night falls many hundreds of them will have been nominated for the "also rans" class.

The relay race held a possibility of a new world's record in the century dash, where names such as those of Bryce of Rice Institute, Elder of Notre Dame, Timm of Illinois, Wilcox of Kansas and Toland of Michigan stood out. They also held the probability that either Warner of Northwestern or Canby of Iowa, not to mention Otterness of Minnesota, McDermott of Illinois, Soule of Iowa State, McAttee of Michigan State might break the Drake record of 15.7 seconds in the mile vault and continue to state heights seldom if ever before reached.

They appeared to endanger the existing mark in the broad jump where Portness of Northwestern and Gordon of Iowa were set for a dual of their own if they are able to shake off such opposition as that offered by Simon of Illinois, Thompson of Nebraska, Rourke of Notre Dame, and Larson of Wisconsin. The high hurdles, likewise, boasted a sensational field, including Larson of Nebraska, Taylor of Grinnell, Hager of Iowa State, Haydon of Chicago, Allison and Saling of Iowa, and Rodgers and Sentman of Illinois.

FORMER BAY STAR IN MISSISSIPPI LOOP

Burlington, Ia.—The Burlington baseball candidates got their first stiff workout of the season here today when Manager George "Pep" Young sent his players through a long batting and fielding practice.

Several new players are with the squad this season and "Pep" is trying to round them into shape and get a good line on them before the opening of the season May 8.

Norman Clusman, shortstop of Green Bay, is one of the new players who has shown good in the first two days of training. He reported Monday with the regulars and recruits and has been going through the stiff drills in fine shape.

The former Green Bay player has been showing a lot of power at the plate, banging the ball to all corners of the lot in the batting sessions. His fielding also has been above the average.

VIKING COACH TALKS TO STATE CAGE CHAMPS

A. C. Denney, athletic director at Lawrence college will be the principal speaker on the annual banquet for members of the Wausau high school basketball team Friday night. Wausau high won the state title this year at Madison. The team is coached by Caddy Ewers, a former Lawrence college student. Coach Denney referred several times to the Wausau team took part in during the tournament, the banquet is being given by the Wausau Hi-Y team.

SALO CONTINUES TO CREEP UP IN DERBY

Sullivan, Mo.—(AP)—With the toughest lap of the run thus far behind them the 28 survivors in C. C. Fyfe's Union derby looked Friday toward Rolla, Mo., for their next resting place. Thursday they completed a 61 mile run from Maplewood, Mo., to Sullivan under the worst conditions yet encountered. Johnny Salo, the flying cop of Passaic, N. Y., cut deeply into the lead of Pete Ravuzzi, Italian waiter of England, by his victory Thursday.

WOLVES CLAIM HESTON'S ON THEIR GRID SQUAD

Ann Arbor, Mich.—(AP)—A pair of sophomores, one the son of famous Willie Heston of point-a-minute days, may give Michigan a big scoring punch on the gridiron next fall. The two, Willie Heston, Jr., and Raymond Priest, were the sensations of the Wolverine spring training drill Thursday. Heston flashed a great open field running performance, while Priest smashed his way for long gains through the line.

A few days ago the university of Wisconsin publicity department said Willie Heston, Jr., was at Wisconsin and a member of the grid squad. Someone's kidding the Badgers to all indications.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—

ELK BOWLERS, BAND AT WISCONSIN RAPIDS, FOR STATE PIN MEET

Appleton Elk club bowlers, 11 five man teams strong, and the Elk band will invade Wisconsin Rapids Saturday to try their luck with the maples in the state Elk bowling tournament. Practically all the men also have entered in doubles and singles. The local legions will bowl Saturday and Sunday. The teams are scheduled to leave the Elks Club at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

ORANGE AND H. S. TEAMS HOLD MEETS

Inter Class Contests Will Be Held Saturday at Whiting Field

Both Lawrence college and Appleton high school track squads get a taste of competition Saturday when they indulge in their annual interclass meets on George A. Whiting athletic field.

The Orange squad will meet at the field in the morning and strut through its stuff while the collegians will work in afternoon.

Both track squads have been practicing daily for the last two weeks, the Vikings having entered in a meet at Madison last Saturday with results that were entirely satisfactory to Coach A. C. Denney.

The high school squad indulged in pentathlon competition during the last few weeks, the workouts being just enough to show Coach Joseph Shields what he can expect of the boys and to bring out a few latent stars.

CUB'S CATCHER FINDS SALARY ARM IS O. K.

Pittsburg—(AP)—Just when Manager Joe McCarthy was in a frenzy about his wrecked catching staff, "Caddy" Hartnett discovered his arm had healed.

Hartnett, first string catcher for the Cubs, has been on the bench since the first week of spring training with a lame salary wing. Thursday he tossed a ball and for the first time in months and experienced no pain.

McCarthy planned to use him against the Pirates Friday.

VIKING WRESTLERS ENTERTAIN K. OF P.

LaBarba Seeking Fight With Kid Chocolate

BY JOHN J. ROMANO
Copyright, 1929

NEW YORK — Fidel LaBarba, accompanied by his manager, George Blake, is due to arrive in this city shortly for the purpose of signing a contract to fight Kid Chocolate. This contest will likely outdraw any match between little fellows staged here in some time.

LaBarba, former holder of the flyweight title, has a decision over Bushey Graham in his credit. Had the fight been at the recognized bantamweight limit Fidel would be recognized as the champion of that class.

Chocolate also boasts a win over Graham, on a foul and on that account, has been pointing for a match with an outstanding bantamweight to bolster his claim to the crown. But Chocolate can not claim much credit for his win over Bushey. The latter was well in the lead when the low punch landed and might have gone on to a point victory had the bout lasted the distance. This was also at catch weights.

The local commission refused to sanction the Chocolate-Graham contest as a titular affair and it is hardly likely that it will recede from this position in the LaBarba-Chocolate scrap even though it is billed for 15 rounds, the accepted route for a titular match in this state.

Then again there is always the question of making weight. Neither boy has attempted to pare down to 115 pounds during the past year and the fans are skeptical about their ability to do so.

LaBarba has been campaigning with huge success in Australia. All his contests were at catchweights and Fiddle shouldered several needed pounds in the four scraps he engaged in. He fought Willie Smith twice. The first went the limit with LaBarba pulling down the award and the return go ended in a knockout with Smith on the floor. This is the same Smith who was knocked out quickly in Cleveland a year ago.

LaBarba knocked out Billy McAllister in four rounds and then copped a 15 round contest from Billy Grime. This is the same fellow who barnstormed this country as a world-beater last year and was badly mauled about by some of our best featherweights.

LaBarba's trip was a big success from a financial standpoint but left little to the imagination as to his ability to make 115 pounds and lead the bantamweight class in this country.

ENGLISH DISPLACES SPANISH IN MANILA

Candidates for Judiciary Must Have Working Knowledge of Language

Manila — (AP)—The Spanish language is giving ground to English despite the efforts of older Filipinos to keep Spanish alive.

The latest indication of this was contained in a communication from Governor General Stimson to the secretary of justice in which the executive advised the secretary that nominees for the judiciary must have at least a working knowledge of the English language.

The order was in line with the administration's policy of encouraging the adoption of English as the sole official language of the country as soon as possible. This policy, in turn, was prompted by the fact that most of the younger Filipinos speak English, but have a slight knowledge or none at all, of Spanish.

At present, both Spanish and English are the official languages of the Philippines. The last legislature passed a bill extending Spanish as one of the official languages of the insular courts until 1940. The measure was vigorously protested by young Filipino lawyers who asserted that some judges, by insisting that the proceedings of their courts be conducted in Spanish, worked an undue hardship upon them, since, having received all their training in English, they did not know Spanish. Governor Stimson signed the bill, but issued a statement recognizing the merit of the complaint of the young lawyers and stating that hereafter the matter would be dealt with administratively.

SAME BIRTHDAY, SAME TEAM Horace Lisenbee, pitcher, and Heinie Wagner, coach, both with the Boston Red Sox, were born on the same day of the year, Sept. 23. Wagner was born in 1881 and Lisenbee in 1903.

PUT HIM IN THE LINEUP Pat Crawford, rookie first baseman with the New York Giants, hit three home runs in an exhibition game this spring, two of them coming with the bases fully occupied.

MILLER HUGGINS KNOWS Miller Huggins says the toughest problem facing a manager of a ball club is his patching staff and the toughest detail is deciding when to change and when not to change pitchers in a game.

RED SEA WORST SPOT FOR RADIO PROGRAMS

Steamship Captain Claims Reception Is Unfavorable in Tropics

San Francisco — (AP)—The world's worst spot for radio reception is the Red sea.

Such is the conclusion of Capt. J. J. Cudegan, master of the steamer President Hayes, whose recent return from a round-the-world cruise terminated the circumnavigation of the globe by a standard seven-tube broadcast receiver.

Among the interesting radio discoveries of the captain, in addition to the worst spot for reception, was what he considers the best region for listening in. Less than 24 hours out of Honolulu, Captain Cudegan heard programs from the United States, Japan and Australia. Radio programs also were plentiful in the Mediterranean and between the Azores and New York.

The President Hayes sailed from San Francisco September 8. When more than 800 miles out, KFI, Los Angeles, was tuned in and then again when 1,954 miles away. As the boat neared the Hawaiian Islands, signals from the United States faded and JOAK and other Japanese stations were heard, as well as Shanghai and Calcutta. One night the captain heard 3-L0, Melbourne, Australia, more than 4,200 miles away.

Reception was not good in tropical waters and in the Red sea it was terrible. Conditions improved when the ship reached the Mediterranean, where programs in English, French, Spanish, German and Italian were plentiful.

November 20, when the President Hayes was off the Azores, Captain Cudegan heard WJZ, New York, while still in the range of European stations. As he passed the Azores, American programs came in clearly and one night six American transmitters were logged.

WIDOW'S BRIDGE ABILITY HER SUPPORT IN CRISIS

Chicago—(AP)—Mrs. M. K. Alexander learned to play bridge for fun, when she was thrown on her own resources by the death of her husband, she taught it for a livelihood until she could fit herself for a profession. She now is assistant manager of an insurance agency and vice president of the Chicago Auction Bridge club.

"Some of my pupils were the wealthiest and brainiest women in Chicago," said Mrs. Alexander, "but they spent two years with me without learning the game. Why? They didn't stay at it continuously. Parts of the summers they were in the mountains or abroad, and in the winters they went south."

"The pupils of limited means were the best."

ROMAN STUDENTS TAKE UP COURSE ON FOODS

Rome—(AP)—The chiefs of Italy have accomplished a rare feat. They got ahead of Mussolini by a good 21 hours.

Just a day before he proclaimed the organization of the new Italian Academy, with Senator Tittoni as its president, they got together and instituted the National Gastronomic Academy. It will have its headquarters here in Rome and, according to its statutes, will work "for the cultural and artistic elevation of gastronomy, which seems to be orientated towards a phase of apparent decadence."

How To Play Bridge

BY Milton C. Work

MR. WORK'S POINTERS

CONTRACT BRIDGE

"The Auction Player, unfamiliar with Contract is apt to be troubled by the big difference between Auction and Contract values for tricks, under-tricks, premiums, slams and rubbers, etc. The vulnerability feature of Contract is also apt to be confusing."

As a special service to our readers, Mr. Work will be glad to send you upon request, complimentary, a complete statement explaining all these new features, provided you enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope for his reply. Mr. Work also answers all Auction and Contract questions without charge."

Because many players become confused when they try to figure out how doubles and revoke penalties operate to produce games and slams, it is important that these points be made perfectly clear.

A double doubles the value of all tricks, whether odd tricks won by Declarer or under-tricks won by his adversaries. But whether or not there has been a double, Declarer scores nothing for tricks unless he makes his contract he scores toward game (below the line) the number of odd tricks contracted for and no more. To determine whether a Declarer has made game, it is only necessary to multiply the number of odd tricks bid for and won by the doubler for redoubled value of one trick. Fulfilling a contract means winning the number of tricks bid for regardless of doubling; winning a game means scoring the necessary number of points, which naturally is easier to do when the odd tricks have an increased value.

With the contract one Spade doubled, there would be no chance for Declarer to go to game unless he had a score of at least 40, no matter how many odd tricks were won; he could only count 69 (the doubled value of one Spade trick) below the line. But two Spades doubled would produce games from a love score, if the contract were fulfilled, because two Spades at 60 per trick would entitle the Declarer to 120 below the line. Two Clubs doubled, and three odd tricks won would not produce game at a love score because only the two tricks bid for (worth 40 each at doubled values) would count; the premium for the contract and third trick being scored above the line. Three Clubs bid, doubled and made would be game because each trick would count 40.

The two errors into which players commonly fall are these: A player (for example) gets the contract at two No Trumps, is doubled and makes two-odd; the contention is that he does not go game because he did not bid for game. The fact is that he bid for two tricks and won them; and the tricks happened to be valuable enough to make a game-score of 100 or more. Again (for example) a player bids four Hearts, is doubled and wins two odd; the contention is that two Hearts doubled are worth 120 and that Declarer wins his game because he was "doubled out" by his opponents. The fact is that Declarer does not win his game, nor score anything toward game, because he failed to make good his contract.

Tomorrow: Counting revoke penalty tricks.

TOWN WATER SYSTEM IS OPERATED WITHOUT COST

Gibson, Ga. — (AP)—The town of Gibson uses direct water-power to produce its water supply, probably on the theory that like should produce like.

Whatever the theory, Gibson boasts a water system, municipally operated, which constitutes a near approach to perpetual motion. It runs all the time and hasn't had a breakdown in its 29 years of operation. If the system has cost any money, no one here recalls it.

Here is how it works: About 300 yards from the center of town is a creek, fed by a group of springs. A trough carries the water from the creek to the brow of a small ridge, under which is a water wheel. Attached to the wheel, which is turned by the creek's water, is a vertical shaft. The shaft is connected to a cable which slides back and forth over the tops of cypress poles extending to an artesian well in the main square of Gibson. The cable works a well-pump piston, exactly as a gasoline engine would, and pumps water into a wooden tank over the well. From this well, the 600 or more citizens of Gibson are supplied drinking water and fire protection.

The system operates without expense and without manual labor.

EUROPE FEELING EFFECT OF HIGH U. S. MONEY RATE

Bank of Germany Boosts Rediscount Rate to 7 1/2 Per Cent

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE, Copyright, 1929, By Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York—Financial Review and Outlook—The influence of the high money rates in this country on the financial centers of Europe was ably illustrated Thursday in the advance in the Bank of Germany rediscount rate from 6 1/2 to 7 1/2 per cent. Early in January the Reichsbank had lowered its rate from 7 per cent to 6 1/2 per cent anticipating a period of easier money. Gold withdrawals amounting to $115,000,000 in the past two weeks and unexpected complications due to the failure of the reparations conference in Paris compelled the German bank to take protective measures.

The action in Berlin is a sequel to a long list of price advances made in the last three months in Europe and in South America in order to prevent the outflow of funds to the American market. In January the Bank of Italy raised its rate from 5 1/2 to 6 per cent. In February the Bank of England took radical action in lifting its rate from 4 1/2 to 5 1/2 per cent. In March the Bank of Netherlands increased its rate from 4 1/2 to 5 1/2 per cent. Last week the Bank of France raised its rate of 8 per cent to 9 per cent and in the early part of this week, the rate of the bank of Austria was increased from 6 1/2 to 7 1/2 per cent and that of the Bank of Hungary from 7 per cent to 8 per cent.

These rates compare with the federal reserve rate in nine districts in this country of 5 per cent and in the remaining three districts of 4 1/2 per cent.

OFFICIAL RATE LOWER

While the American market is the highest of all prominent markets in the world its official rate is the lowest with the exception of those in France and the Scandinavian countries.

International Bankers especially those that have been identified with the flotation of German dollar loans are deeply concerned over the money situation in Germany. This has apparently developed into an acute crisis with the German government compelled to borrow from the German banks in order to pay its current obligations. The inability of the German representatives at Paris and those of the allies to come to an agreement on reparations payments has produced a condition threatening to upset the workings of the Dawes plan and make transfers under this scheme most difficult.

However, there has so far been no evidence of anxiety among American holders of German securities amounting to $1,750,000,000 for prices of the various German municipal, provincial, public utility and industrial bonds show only small changes from the level of two weeks ago.

Banks here called loans today more freely than at any time in the past two weeks. This resulted in a sharp advance in the call money rate and provoking further rumors of a possible rise in the rediscount rate today should the item of brokers loans show a substantial increase in consequence of the expansion of the stock trading and the considerable rise in the average of prices since the middle of the month.

Assembly to Consider Gasoline Bill at Next Tuesday's Session

Madison—(AP)—Assembly sentiment as to proposed increases in gasoline taxes will be tested Tuesday. This was assured when the body gave Assemblyman P. E. Nelson, Douglas, permission today to bring one of the gasoline bills from committee to the floor of the house as a part of Tuesday's business.

Both houses of the legislature met briefly today with the senate history line through brief business with Sen. William H. Markham, Horicon, in the chair. The assembly finished its week's work shortly after 10 o'clock and adjourned until Tuesday morning.

The only important measure on the calendar today in the lower house was moved over until May 8. It was the bill of Assemblyman Don V. Smith, Jefferson-co., to abolish the present departments of agriculture, dairy and food, and markets, and substitute therefor a unified department of agriculture having the duties and powers of the three departments.

The assembly advanced to third reading without debate the bill of Sen. John C. Schuman, Watertown, for licensing of butter makers. The bill of Assemblyman J. C. Burnham, Waupaca-co., removing the $500 maximum which a county board may appropriate to members of the highway committee for per diem work was passed by the lower house.

WOMEN'S VOTE TO DECIDE BRITAIN'S SPRING ELECTIONS

"Flapper Vote" Gives Vast Majority; 75 Running for Parliament

BY MILTON BRONNER

London — When the voters of Great Britain go to the polls this spring to choose their members in the House of Commons, and thereby automatically decide which party shall form the cabinet and the government, a quiet and bloodless revolution will have been accomplished. One of the greatest and most striking in all the history of democracies.

For with the exception of some 55 constituents out of a total of 591, from southern England up through Wales and Scotland, the women voters will outnumber the men. If they turn out to their full strength, Great Britain will be a woman-ruled country so far as voting goes.

The whole situation is in striking contrast to the one in the United States. When America decided to give women the vote, it gave it to all of them on the same terms as the men. Every American citizen 21 years of age, regardless of sex, had the right to the ballot.

VOTE REVERSED MAJORITIES
In England, where the fight was far longer and more bitter, only a halfway measure was adopted. Women had to be at least 30 before they got the vote. They had to have certain residential and property qualifications.

Even so, the voting list was enormously increased, but only in four constituencies did the women possess a majority. But last year, yielding to enormous political pressure, Parliament passed a law giving the franchise to all women over 21. The die-hards bitterly opposed it. Lord Rothermere and his powerful string of rappers fought what they called the flapper vote and warned the Tory party that they were digging their own graves.

After the bill became law, the voting lists were prepared and revealed an astonishing thing: whereas before the women prevailed only in 4 out of 591 constituencies, they now were in a majority in 539 of them. Oddly enough where the men still predominated it was mainly in the industrial regions of northern England and in the mining districts of Wales and Scotland. Enormous differences have been made in some of the constituencies—the addition of the younger women has increased the female vote by 100 per cent or even more. A few districts which last year had a majority of men over women to the tune of over 12,000, now are the exact reverse.

One of the results of this strange condition of affairs is that women will take a far more active part in the next election than ever has been the case in the United States. Each of the three great political parties—Tory, Liberal and Labor—will have special women's committees and organizations in every Parliamentary constituency. Each will have a whole corps of speakers who will aim specially to appeal to the women voters.

Mrs. Baldwin, wife of the present Tory Prime Minister; Miss Isabel MacDonald, daughter of the first Labor Premier; Mrs. Lloyd-George and Miss Megan Lloyd-George, respectively wife and daughter of the famous Liberal Prime Minister, will all be on the stump. Lady Astor, born Nancy Langhorne, of Virginia, and the first woman ever to sit in Parliament, will be a candidate for reelection. Lady Cynthia Mosley, granddaughter of Levi Leiter of Chicago, will be on the stump for her husband.

There are nine women members in the present House of Commons. It is confidently expected that the list will be greatly increased next time. Up to date, the Tories have nominated five women, the Liberals 14, the Independents two, and the Labor party 20. It is probable that before the campaign closes at least 75 women will be running for Parliament.

MANY WILL FAVOR LABORITES
In some of the close residential districts of cities like London, Edinburgh and Glasgow, the Tories expect the added woman vote to help them. However, it is universally conceded that in the industrial districts of the north of England and in the mining districts of England, Wales and Scotland the new vote will aid the Labor party. All the political party machine leaders have studied American election methods as used in our last Presidential campaign and will adopt them over here. Just as Hoover and Smith spoke simultaneously to ten or twelve meetings by radio hook-ups, so will Baldwin, Lloyd George and MacDonald. Just as the speech-leaders were broadcast all over the nation, so will they here. Just as Hoover and Smith were seen and heard in movie-talkies in hundreds of American towns. And when the campaign gets hot the party leaders will be seen and heard on the village green every night through the "talkies." Good-looking women party leaders who screen well and register well on the talkies, will be pressed into service. The aim of every campaign committee will be to hold their majority in the next Parliament. The party that gets it will be in the bulk of the new woman vote.

ADDRESSES ON MAIL SHOULD BE CHECKED
Patrons of postoffices in Appleton and nearby cities have been asked by postoffice officials here to exercise particular care in mailing letters after they have been "marked City." It is pointed out that in many instances persons working in Appleton, but living in Kaukauna, Little Chute, Neenah or Menasha, carry a group of letters to their homes and dispatch them there. If these letters are addressed "City," considerable delay and extra work follows for postal employees. The officials have asked that more attention be paid to letters in check and that they be addressed "City." Rummage Sale Presby. Church. 9 A. M. Sat. Apr. 27.

Deserts Can Be Made Day Before Use

BY SISTER MARY

THE woman who entertains the same small group of friends every few months is often quite "tired" for her refreshments. Something "different" is always desired, but too often this means elaborate out-of-season luxuries that strain the house-keeping allowance.

The dessert that can be made the day before is ideal for any company meal. There are always many demands on the hostess as well as the cook when extra people are to be served, and if the hostess is also the cook the more she can accomplish the day before the better off she is.

Even the family meal seems easier to manage if the dessert is all ready to serve.

Attractive service and garnishing do much for even the simplest dessert. Individual molds make for a party air but sometimes take too much room in the ice box. Neat, clean-cut servings from a large loaf or mold are perfectly proper for any occasion. Very often the large mold can be garnished and made to look quite elaborate and festive. Serving a dessert in this fashion permits each person to help himself.

RICE AND PINEAPPLE PUDDING

One-half cup rice, 1-2 cup sugar, 1 cup crushed pineapple, 1-2 cup whipping cream, few grains salt. Cook rice in four cups boiling salted water until tender. Drain and pour several quarts of boiling water through rice. Drain and turn into a large bowl. Add sugar and pineapple and mix lightly with a fork. Chill over night. When ready to serve, fold in cream whipped until firm. Pile on a serving dish and garnish with snips of maraschino cherries or cubes of bright jelly. Or serve on glass dessert plates with a garnish of whipped cream and cherries.

SHE HAS HARD TIME CHOOSING HER LIFE WORK

Pullman, Wash. — (P) — Anna Dynowska, comely Washington state college senior, can do so many things that her main problem is which line of endeavor to follow after leaving college. Artist, dancer, writer, linguist and musician, Miss Dynowska came to America from Warsaw five years ago, alone, and dependent upon her own resourcefulness for support. Undaunted by strange surroundings, she enrolled as a biology major at Washington state and has maintained an average of 90 per cent in her studies. Before coming to America she was head of the filing and mailing department of the American consulate at Warsaw.

House Combines Old and New in Design

BY CORA W. WILSON

Practicality and genuine artistry join to make this small Colonial house ideal for the average family.

It doesn't demand too much of workmanship—nor consequently of the pocketbook. It has a definite atmosphere of the past, yet is thoroughly modern in the conveniences it provides.

The house is lumber built. The color scheme is unusual—an exterior of white-painted cedar shingles, robin's-egg-blue wooden shutters, white paneled front door, red-brick coping around the door and bay window, and a red-brick chimney.

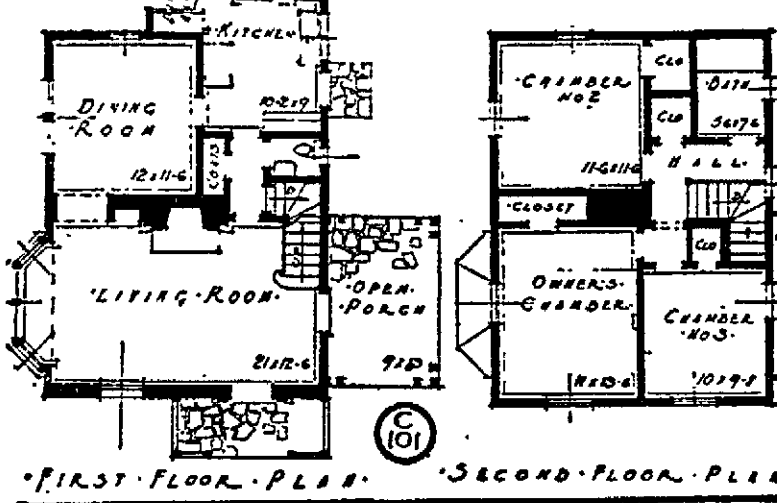

There are six large, well-connected rooms. Closets are numerous. An entrance platform of red brick leads into a charming living room, and almost directly opposite the doorway is an old Colonial fireplace. A bay window may look out on a garden of old-fashioned flowers. In the same room there are two other windows, making for a triple view of the out-of-doors. On the right is a white-painted Colonial stairway with mahogany rail and treads.

Leading out of the living room, off a small hall going toward the kitchen, are a large coat closet and a lavatory. The modern kitchen has a large closet and a small dining alcove.

The dining room is connected with both the living room and of course the kitchen. The stairs to the basement—a continuation of the stairs to the second floor—are convenient to all the main rooms.

Three bedrooms large enough to be furnished in Colonial style are on the second floor. Each room has a clothes closet. A small hall which separates these rooms has a linen closet and leads into a bath room.

For additional information and cost estimate write to Mrs. Cora W. Wilson, 420 Madison-ave, New York City, and be sure to enclose the clipping from this newspaper.

DON'T DESTROY CHILD'S FAITH IN HIS PARENTS

BY OLIVER ROBERTS BARTON

Never have I been accused of being a blue nose—I have never set myself up to be a reformer nor tried to interfere with the liberty of other people: neither have I criticized them for holding tenets opposite to mine.

But occasionally it behooves me to express an opinion. This urge to express myself now follows an article I have just read about parents making pals of their children. So far—excellent! But this writer says that since times have changed and parents are living their own lives and changing the old solitaire and sock-darning evenings for gay parties of the more or less sophisticated type, why play hypocrite and pretend to the children to be what they're not? In this day of close quarters and small apartments the children know it anyway.

We cannot take up space by saying that parents shouldn't do things their children shouldn't know and we can't take up still more space by saying that such parents are in a great minority. Neither is the answer, for although both may be true, the question is there just the same.

Children are idealists. Their knowledge of life should come slowly, naturally—and their ideals should be kept intact as long as possible. Oh, no, we don't want to make snuggly little prigs out of them. Prigs grow up into bigots usually, "than which there is nothing else worse."

THE IDEALS ARE TRUE But aside from all maiden sentiment—there is an idealistic faith that children have in parents that no one has a right to destroy. Certainly I cannot understand the mother or father who wishes to destroy it. To keep a child's faith is not hypocrisy. Anyway, if it is hypocrisy, it is the one excusable kind.

For what the child needs more than the truth about his parents in the case his faith in them. Ask the children themselves. They'll tell you. They all dislike to hear their parents talk of doing things that instinctively offend them—the children, I mean.

I heard a young couple one day laughing about a wild party before their children; how one Milliken had gotten "spifflicated" before his second cocktail and how embarrassed the hostess was until his wife told her he was "spiked" before he came and got her things and drove him home.

U. S. Sun Suit

THE IMPORTANT SUN SUIT

THE STYLE No. 3483 is the important sun suit recommended by the Home Economics Department of the U. S. Government, for the welfare and happiness of youngsters of 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 years. The direct rays of the sun on the unclothed body have proven better than a tonic to make these little folk sturdy. It is such a comfortable fashion too that the kiddies just adore it, for they feel so free to romp and play. The cute flared sides with deep pockets and less gathered into knee bands is so attractive. It is opened under the arms to waist. The front is in one piece; back in two sections with drop seat. It is enticingly cool, and at same time allows the sunbeams to strike the little body while at play. Materials best to select are loosely woven fabrics as galatea, singham, cretonne, khaki cloth, linen and chambray.

THE PATTERN explains in pictures how to make it. With this amusing Picture Chart, it's quite possible to make several sets in a single morning. It includes pattern for sunbonnet and is offered at cost price 15 cents (stamps or coin) as a service to readers who sew.

NEW FASHION BOOK containing all the latest styles is 15 cents, but may be obtained for 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

THE NEW Saint Sinner

By Anne Austin

When Crystal descended to the living room that Saturday morning, she found Harry Blaine stretched out in the biggest armchair, a pipe watching his teeth, his gray eyes watching his hostess with quizzical amusement and admiration. Cherry was arranging hothouse flowers in a row of vases and bowls.

At Crystal's "Good morning!" Harry sprang to his feet and indicated his own chair with a grand flourish of his pipe. "The top of the morning to you, Cryst! You're just in time to catch Cherry in the act of performing her heavy morning chores."

"I never get any credit for anything," Cherry protested, with an air of deep injury. "I suppose you think this house keeps itself. Harry Blaine! If you only knew how I slave—"

"Just work your fingers to the bone, don't you, Cherry?" Harry chuckled. "Well, I must say the results do you credit Oh, so I get a bowl of roses right at my elbow, do I? Would you put one of these yellow ones in my buttonhole?"

"I told you that you're the most picturesque household drudge I ever saw!" Thank you. Now where can Crystal and I go to some real drudgery, away from the disturbing effect of your beauty?"

"I might have known there was dark design behind your flattery," Cherry pouted. "You may stay in here. I'll leave you alone. Much work to do—baby to bathe, these vases to distribute, luncheon table to set, and—oh, lots of things," she ended vaguely.

"Do spare yourself as much as possible," Harry called out unfeeling as his hostess left the room. "Well, Cryst! Ready to get to work on the play?"

"Ra'ring to go!" Crystal smiled. "Knowing the speed with which you work, I suppose you already have the thing sketched out."

"Roughly," Harry admitted drawing some folded sheets of "copy" paper from his pocket. "Here's the main idea—"

He was reading his notes, with many explanatory interpolations, when the prolonged shrill of the telephone interrupted. They heard the clatter of Cherry's high heels on the stairs, then her high-pitched voice. The reporter had resumed his reading when an excited Cherry came running into the room.

"The oddest thing," she gasped, but her eyes were sparkling with wicked glee. "You heard the phone, of course Well, the call was for Dick Talbot!"

"That is odd, of course," Harry Blaine grinned. "Fancy odd Dick getting a telephone call! Probably doesn't happen more than once or twice a year. Extremely odd, I call it."

"You needn't jeer," Cherry scolded. "Just wait till I tell you—"

"Better tell Dick, hadn't you?" Harry suggested.

"It was a girl," Cherry went on, sublimely impervious to reproach. "And she was crying, or had been, because her voice was all choked and gaspy. Like this: — Is Dick — I mean, is Mr. Dick Talbot there?"

And when I said, no, and that it was Mrs. Jonson speaking, and I'd take a message, she said, 'Oh! Please tell him to call Callie at the grocery store! You won't forget, will you, Mrs. Jonson? The grocery store! Tell him it's terribly important.'"

MAN TO SUPER-MAN: MATTER OF TASTE

Westerly, R. I.—It was just a simple matter of taste. Not taste for books, music, or art. Simply a tasteful change of diet. The result was that a good man became a better man, according to Mr. S. G. Leaming, R. F. D. No. 1, Westerly. His story of the transformation follows:

"I was not run down, my nerves were neither exhausted nor fatigued, my sleep was peaceful and restful, and I took my caffeine regularly. I was not aware that it was harming me. At the home of a friend one day I was served my first cup of Postum and I became so enthusiastic over it that it replaced caffeine as our regular mealtime drink and we have never had anything else since. Therein lies the sole excuse for my desertion of caffeine—simply a matter of taste. Postum's fine flavor was more pleasing than that of the caffeine drink we had been in the habit of using."

Notes results quickly "It was less than thirty days after my first cup of Postum that I became conscious of an improvement. My complexion was not amazingly cleared, my blood was not miraculously purified, and I could not play tennis any better. The simple truth was that at night I was not as tired as formerly, although the end of the day had never found me totally exhausted. Apparently, however, caffeine had caused a drain upon my nervous system and my healthy body responded even when this load was slightly lessened.

"The stoppage of this nervous loss plus the invigorating influence of Postum has increased my reserve energy to such an extent that I have much more strength left at the end of the day. When Postum can improve a healthy body it is in Postum's favor that I must write."

Taste, and wisdom, too! Postum is not a "cure-all," not a "medicine." Postum is just what Mr. Leaming says of it: a delightful mealtime drink with wholesome after-effects. A drink the healthy can enjoy as well as the sleepless and nervous. A drink that's good for old and young.

Try Postum for thirty days, in place of caffeine beverages, and see! Discover the wonderful flavor of this wholesome drink, made of roasted whole wheat and bran. Discover its remarkable advantage to health. For Postum contains no caffeine—no artificial stimulant of any kind. Nothing to rob you of sleep, to attack nerves and heart, or disturb digestion. Like millions of others, you'll become a Postum user for life!

Your grocer has Postum in two forms—Instant Postum, made instantly in the cup, and Postum Cereal, the kind you boil. Both cost much less than most other mealtime drinks—only one-half cent a cup. Order today—start your 30-day test.

Yes, we have it!

THIS HAS HAPPENED
MILDRED LAWRENCE staggered at the Judson Hotel, has her fox fur stolen from her in a crowd but STEPHEN ARMITAGE catches the thief and returns the scarf. He asks to take her home. Not wishing to seem ungrateful, she invites him to dinner.

Their evening is spoiled when PAMELA JUDSON, daughter of her employer, phones Mildred to return to duty. Stephen escorts her to the hotel where Pamela recognizes him as the salesman who has sold her a car. She snub Mildred and tries to lure Stephen away by pretending she wants to buy another car. Then she meets HUCK CONNOR, who becomes infatuated with her and she amuses herself by playing with both men.

When Stephen favors Mildred the manager warns her to be careful or Pamela will have her discharged. But this may not be so easy as HAROLD JUDSON is in love with Mildred. He is a weakling and Mildred permits his attentions to save him from Huck's gambling crowd. However, he suspects that she cares more for Stephen than for him and refuses to stay one evening when Stephen calls.

As the weeks pass Mildred realizes that Pamela is winning Stephen and that Harold is hopelessly tangled with Huck's gamblers. When she asks him to confide in her he refuses but persuades her to dine with him. They drive by her home so she can change her dress and they learn that her mother has had a serious accident. Harold gets a doctor and assists in every way until she is out of danger. After he leaves Mildred remembers that she has not found out why he fears Huck.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XVI

When he went to open the door Mildred tried to tell herself that it couldn't be Stephen who had rung the bell. He hadn't been to her house for ages. But it was Stephen and Mildred had difficulty in hiding her pleasure at seeing him.

"I heard about your mother's accident," he said. "Harold told me." Then he paused and looked at Mildred as though he, too, were thinking what a long time it had been since he had called on her.

"Had a demonstration up in Yonkers this morning," he went on, attempting to lend an air of casualness to the occasion. As a matter of fact he was keenly conscious of having felt impelled to rush to Mildred as soon as he heard there was trouble at her home. He didn't bother to analyze the feeling, taking it for granted that it was merely a friendly interest in people who had welcomed him into their hospitality.

But he did realize that his interest was belated—that he shouldn't have waited for a special event to bring him back if he really liked the family and the realization created an awkwardness in his manner that was misleading to Mildred. She assumed that he was acting under politeness only.

"Oh," she said flatly, "it was nice of you to drop in. I'm sorry mother can't see you; she's asleep."

She motioned him to put his hat on a table in the hall, but Stephen dropped it into the living room and dropped it on the floor beside the chair he took. "Can't stay," he remarked lightly. "I have to do a relief shift downtown as soon as I can get back. Just wanted to inquire about your mother and ask if I can do anything."

"Thank you," Mildred said stiffly. "There isn't anything. Mother will be pleased to know you came in."

Stephen suddenly looked at her with a worried expression. "Look here," he said; "this must be pretty hard on you, Mildred; you . . ."

"I suppose I look a wreck," Mildred interrupted. "Mother had a restless night and it's a job getting Connie off to school. But I'll be organized tonight and then staying home will be a vacation."

"Going to be away from the hotel long?"

"I don't know."

"Well, when you can leave your mother let's have a picnic up in the country somewhere. It's great to be out these days." Stephen spoke enthusiastically. The idea of suggesting something pleasant eased the slight sense of guilt he felt in regard to Mildred.

She was a great girl. He had rushed her a bit and then, darned if he knew how, something always happened to keep him from seeing her.

Mildred smiled. "If I can get away," she said vaguely, but to herself she was saying fiercely that Stephen didn't mean a word of it. It was just another phrase like "see you soon," or "how about letting me come up some night?"

But whatever it was it made

Stephen feel better and he left in gay spirits than when he had arrived. After all, it was not a day of gloom. Pamela surely was going to buy a car if he knew anything about salesmanship. But the little devil demanded concentrated selling effort. Had to be shown.

"I'll show her," he said to himself that afternoon when he stopped the new demonstration car in front of the Judson and went in to pick up Pamela.

He found her as cross as she alone knew how to be. Even when he helped her into the gleaming new chariot at the curb she disdained to notice it.

"What's the matter?" he said, thinking he might as well loose the storm and have it over with. He might be involved or he might not, but he knew he couldn't talk cars to her while she had a tempest brewing.

"Some people have no sense of responsibility whatsoever," Pamela began indefinitely. But she soon got to personalities. "Miss Lawrence knows perfectly well that I'm depending upon her to handle the debutante and bachelor lists for Mrs. Sperry-Whyte's Persian fete. I wouldn't have taken it on at all if I hadn't expected her help."

"Why can't Mrs. Sperry-Whyte put out her own invitations?"

"Don't be absurd. Everyone needs help for really big affairs. I've promised to ask the right people in the younger set."

"You mean you promised to have someone else do it?"

"So you're defending her too, are you?"

"Well . . . but who's the other?"

"Harold. I think it's perfectly disgusting in a girl of Miss Lawrence's position to play up to a boy like Harold."

"Nonsense!" Stephen spoke more sharply than he realized.

"It may be only nonsense to you, but it's rotten to me. Harold was there until all hours last night and . . ."

"You're wrong Pam. Mildred wasn't playing up to Harold last night, if ever. She was nursing her mother. You wouldn't be so severe on her if you had the faintest idea what she's up against."

"So she's playing up to you too? Working the sympathy racket? Well, when did you see her? Let me see, it was three o'clock when you brought me home last night. After that?"

Stephen turned and glared at her. "Don't you know your insinuations?"

WHEN LOOKS DARK to any weak, nervous or ailing woman Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription comes to her aid. Women in every walk of life today say Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a reliable medicine. It is made from roots and herbs, sold by druggists, in both fluid and tablet form.

Mrs. L. Phillips, 1002 St. Beloit, Wis., said: "When I was about grown my blood seemed to be thin and I was weak and poor. Finally my mother started giving me Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and in a short time I was well and stout. Mother recommends the 'Favorite Prescription' in general for women's weakness. She says the value of the 'Prescription' at middle life cannot be over-estimated. She knows from her own experience that at that time, had dizzy spells and could not sleep, but the 'Prescription' made her a stout and well contented old lady for trial pkg. tablets to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y."

are too cheap to get over," he asked wistfully.

Suddenly Pamela slid over closer to him and cuddled up to his side. "Is my boy mad?" she lisped mockingly.

Stephen shook her away from him. "I don't care what you think of me," he said angrily; "but you oughtn't to insult Miss Lawrence. If anyone would receive a caller after three o'clock it would be you."

"If would be if I wanted to do it," Pamela replied unhesitatingly. "Who ever started the idea anyway that our morals change with the hours? For me, I could slap a fresh guy just as hard at three p. m. as I could at three p. m."

"Well, you know Miss Lawrence isn't like you and your red-hot friends that talk like flowery belles," Stephen told her. "Anyway, if you think it all right to be unconventional what's wrong with Harold staying up there as late as he pleases?"

"One up for you," Pamela admitted, "but it does make a difference, don't you think, that Mildred Lawrence knows Harold is in love with her and that he's just a kid whose father is safely in Europe?"

"Again the dirt," Stephen snorted. "Can't you believe that Mildred is no cradle-snatching adventures? If Harold is so crazy about her and she wanted him do you think she'd be working now?"

"I think she wants to marry him," Pamela retorted. "Even with a stupe like Harold that may take time."

"Oh, for land's sake, shut up," Stephen groaned and stopped the car. "Here, take the wheel, I'm dizzy."

And whether or not it was dizziness he remained in the same mental state throughout the rest of the afternoon. For Pamela would not take an interest in the car. She was consumed with a desire to paint Mildred Lawrence as a heartless fortune hunter, and the more she tried the more Stephen found himself defending the absent girl.

When he drove Pamela back to the hotel she barely said goodbye to him. She flew in the entrance without so much as a backward glance at Stephen.

That evening Stephen called again on Mildred, and without the formality of telephoning for permission to do so, he took flowers and some mementoes for Mrs. Lawrence. Her gratitude was touching, but Stephen had no idea that much of the warmth of her welcome came from a mother's heart on behalf of a daughter whose secret she had penetrated.

Connie went to bed early and Mrs. Lawrence fell into a sound sleep before 10 o'clock.

Stephen and Mildred had an hour together without interruptions. Stephen decided, on the way home, that he'd been making a big mistake in seeing so little of Mildred. For his returning so soon had convinced Mildred that he was not merely saying a dilly call that afternoon. She became her natural self . . . only a slightly subdued trace of the bitterness she had felt remained.

Stephen came often during the week that she remained at home. They planned a picnic for Saturday when Connie could stay with her mother.

Mildred made sandwiches of crisp bacon and chopped egg, cup cakes with chocolate icing and coffee. And she'd taken a loose old sports coat and made it into an ensemble to be worn with a sweater. All in all, with the sun shining determinedly, it looked like a day of days.

She rushed about, putting the flat in order, making her mother's room neat and comfortable, fixing a lunch for Connie; and then at last she was ready to put on the suit that was almost new, pull a bright red beret over her brown curls and sit down to wait for Stephen who was already past due.

Fifteen minutes later he telephoned. He was like a small boy who couldn't go to the circus only it happened that on this occasion it was to be a picnic.

JACK RABBITS NO PEST TO KANSAS COLLECTOR

Hutchinson, Kas.—(AP)—Koon C. Beck has turned pests into profits by marketing thousands of Kansas Jack rabbits.

He is called "the man who will buy anything" because he collects almost every kind of bird or animal. His menagerie, begun in his boyhood when he robbed birds' nests, now includes animals from fancy chickens to lions.

Beck started buying and selling rabbits 15 years ago. Business grew so fast he employed a crew of men to dress animals and ship them by rail.

In 1918 Beck contracted to supply 1,200,000 rabbits for army cantonments. Now his business comes from commission houses, felt hat concerns and toy farms, which use the meat for fox feed.

Proper Nourishment— the Secret of Early, Crisp, Delicious Vegetables

SUCCESSFUL gardening of any kind is largely a matter of right feeding. And that is within the control of everyone.

Plants are like human beings. They are living things. They must be fed properly.

They need plenty of good, nourishing food—food of the right kind and in proper "balance."

Professional gardeners and nursery-men give special care to that point. For years they have used Vigoro, a scientific, complete plant food, specially formulated for their use.

Thousands of home owners have now discovered this plant food and the remarkable results it makes possible.

Vegetables difficult to grow, like tomatoes, in many cases ripen two to three weeks earlier. Radishes, lettuce, carrots and other common garden vegetables have a surprising crispness and added flavor.

For Vigoro is a scientifically prepared plant food. Properly balanced and complete it supplies all the nourishment required for early vigorous growth, full development of flowers, fruit and foliage.

It develops finer lawns, too, stronger root systems. It increases humus. It helps choke out weeds. Grass becomes thicker, greener. And flowers are perfect in color, longer blooming. While shrubs and trees take on new vigor.

Clean and odorless, Vigoro can be sown by hand like grass seed.

Its cost of application is surprisingly low—only 10c to 20c for every 100 square feet. Full directions in every bag—100, 50, 25 lb. sizes and 5 lb. packages.

See your dealer. There's one close by. Get your Vigoro now—enough for everything you grow. And this year have results such as you've never before dreamed possible.

- THE CALENDAR OF PLANT FEEDING THIS MONTH
1. LAWNS: As soon as grass shows green, or any time thereafter, apply plant food.
 2. FLOWERS: Work plant food into soil before seeding; or for perennials, as soon as plants appear. For early large and richly colored blooms make later feedings.
 3. VEGETABLES: Work plant food into the soil before seeding. Later feedings will hasten maturity, increase yields.
 4. SHRUBS, TREES: Apply plant food any time after leaves appear.

NIGHT CLASSES AT VOCATIONAL SCHOOL CLOSED

Enrollment Last Term Was Largest in History of Institution

Kaukauna — Evening school classes at Kaukauna Vocational school closed Thursday night for the term. The enrollment this year was greater than any time in the history of the school. Over 350 individuals were enrolled, and many took work in more than one class.

Twenty-one teachers were employed to handle the adult education program, and 26 classes were conducted every week. Most of the adult classes were held in the evening, but the sewing classes were so crowded that it was necessary to hold several classes in the afternoon. Evening room and shop in the Vocational school was utilized every night in the week, and in addition it was necessary to engage two rooms at the high school building and two commercial shops outside of the school. The results in all classes were satisfactory, according to Director William T. Sullivan, who reports that many people already have signed up for classes for the next school term.

The adult education classes will be resumed next fall beginning shortly after the opening of school in September. It is planned to add new shop classes to the many that already have been offered. There have been several requests this spring for a class in Practical Shop Mathematics. A course of study is now being worked out by Director Sullivan.

It is a policy of the school to offer any course for which there is a demand, according to the director. People desirous of furthering their knowledge of the trade they are working at are urgently requested to express their desires to the director. As soon as the demand for such a course is eminent, plans will be made to have one.

LOYOLA EGAN HAS LEAD IN OPERETTA

"Penny Buns and Roses" Will Be Presented May 10 at Auditorium

Kaukauna — Miss Loyola Egan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Egan, has been selected to play the leading character in the operetta, "Penny Buns and Roses," to be presented Friday May 10, at the high school auditorium under the direction of Miss Eleanor R. Wooster, music teacher of city schools.

Miss Egan's talent in singing and dramatics makes her well fitted for the part of Beautiful Dandel, which she will play. She was one of the major characters in the play, "Icebound," presented last year under Miss Clara Wagner's supervision. She took the lead in the Christmas Festival. She also was cast in many minor one-act plays during the school year. Miss Egan was the representative of the high school at the state chorus at Milwaukee in singing and was soloist in last year's May Festival.

Preparations are under way for costumes and stage furnishing for the operetta. An early American background will furnish the setting. The colonial costumes will be one of the chief attractions of the operetta.

FIRE FIRST GUNS IN CIGARET PRICE WAR ON WEST COAST

United Cigar Stores and Chain Groceries to Engage in Battle

BY J. C. ROYLE

Copyright, 1929, By Cons. Press

New York — The first gun in the battle between the United Cigar Stores and the chain grocery stores, which have cut prices at retail on the Pacific coast, has been fired in the United Cigar Stores. The cut, however, has not yet reached the low level attained by the chain grocery stores, against which the move is obviously aimed.

Recently the Schulte interests have been in the threatened cigar price war. The United Cigar Stores have cut prices at retail on the Pacific coast. The cut, however, has not yet reached the low level attained by the chain grocery stores, against which the move is obviously aimed.

The price war probably will not end the individual cigar store proprietors extensively. The chains have made cuts in the past which the individual retailer could not meet, yet he has continued to exist, although in small numbers and in prospect.

The grocery chains will find a good women's clientele and the cigar store chains will have their casual customers, while the individual store will continue to hold the patrons who have become accustomed to making the neighborhood cigar store a club and a gathering place.

The production of cigarettes in 1929 has risen about ten per cent above that of a year ago but demand seems likely to keep full pace with this expansion. The manufacturers of the machine-made five-cent cigars have taken a leaf from the cigar producer's book and are turning avidly to newspaper display advertising. The quality which the development of cigar making machines has enabled them to put into a five-cent cigarette to add in re-establishing the ascendency as a national habit. Profits of some of the leading cigar manufacturers are closely approaching ten per cent in excess of those for the early part of 1928.

COMMODITY NOTES

San Francisco — Gasoline is retreating here at 17c a gallon as a result of renewal of the price war. This allows only a two cent margin over the wholesale price for most retailers. Big producers and distributors disclaim responsibility saying it is the retailers own fault that there is not a stabilized price.

PRODUCTION ADVANCING

Cigarette production is advancing steadily. The strong advertising campaigns of the leading brands are bearing fruit and the increased consumption by women and the heavy export shipments are all keeping output at its height.

What the price war probably will bring is an increase in the advertising appropriations of the leading brands. This is the more likely since the competition of the British-American tobacco company in the cigarette and smoking tobacco field has now become an actuality. The brands offered are slowly but surely taking hold and the financial position of the British company is such that it can afford to wage a long and expensive battle in order to gain a firm hold in this market. Just now the

MODERN KONJOLA HIGHLY PRAISED BY HAPPY LADY

"This Wonderful Medicine Is the One I should Have Had in the First Place" — All Else Failed

Konjola, the new and different medicine; the medicine that conquers when all else has failed, is proving in Appleton the same tremendous success it has accomplished wherever introduced. Konjola makes good simply because it is made to make good; it succeeds simply because it is a success. Konjola is unlike other medicines in many ways. First, it is emphatically not a medicine of promises. It stands alone and only on a foundation of victories, successes, triumphs. Konjola is not a medicine aimed at mere temporary relief. Its goal is new, abundant and glorious health, no matter what treatments have failed; no matter how long the suffering has been endured; no matter if hope of recovery has been well nigh abandoned. But the best way is to learn all about this new medicine of 23 ingredients, 22 of which are the juices of roots and herbs. See what Konjola has done and is doing. Know what Konjola means to all who would know again the happiness that comes with health. You may hear the amazing story of this superb remedy from the Konjola Man, who is at Schlicht Bros. Drug Store, 114 West College Ave., this city, where he is meeting the public daily, explaining the merits of this medicine.

An everlasting truth it is that we profit by the experiences of others. What a wonderful thing it would be could all who suffer hear what thousands of former sufferers could tell you about this master medicine and its works. Read, then, every word of the statement of Mrs. S. T. Kirkpatrick, 1321 Loyola avenue, Chicago. Dealing with new health Mrs. Kirkpatrick said:

"No words of mine are eloquent enough to pay to Konjola the tribute that it deserves for what it did for me. Before I heard of this amazing medicine I was just about to give up all hope of ever feeling any other well day. Some months ago I underwent an operation for gonorrhea and the shock of this undermined my general health. I was terribly run-down, and not a medicine I tried tended to build me up. My nerves were shattered, appetite disappeared, and because of bladder weakness I was up all hours of the night. The loss of sleep, under-nourishment, nervousness and terrible headaches had about driven me to despair.

"It was in this pitiable physical and mental state when Konjola was recommended to me. I was so discouraged that I had little or no faith left in any medicine, but as I knew that something must be done I finally decided to put this new medicine to the test. What a fine decision that was! Just as I was told it would do, Konjola went to the very source of my troubles. I began to feel better at once. The results were marvelous. In just four weeks, in which time I took four bottles of this master medicine, I was as a new woman. My nerves are calm, digestion is fine, I can sleep all night every night and I have not had a headache since the first few days with Konjola. I never dreamed there could be such a medicine, and I endorse it with all my heart."

The Konjola Man is at Schlicht Bros. Drug Store, 114 West College Ave., Appleton, where he is daily meeting the public, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine. Free samples given.

LONG ECLIPSE OF SUN COMING MAY 9 OVER INDIAN OCEAN

Astronomers Prepared to Take Pictures and Study Phenomenon

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
New York (AP)—The longest eclipse of the sun in years, lasting five minutes, takes place May 9 on the opposite side of the world. The total eclipse will begin at sunrise in the far southwestern corner of the Indian ocean, almost on the African shore, and will sweep eastward, moving against the oncoming twilight. It is expected that it will meet the sunset five hours and 15 minutes later.

During its first two hours the shadow of total eclipse will fall only on water, a waste space from the astronomer's point of view. In all its long forenoon course it will not touch even one small island where an expedition might make its base. It will strike land first soon after noon on the northwest tip of Sumatra.

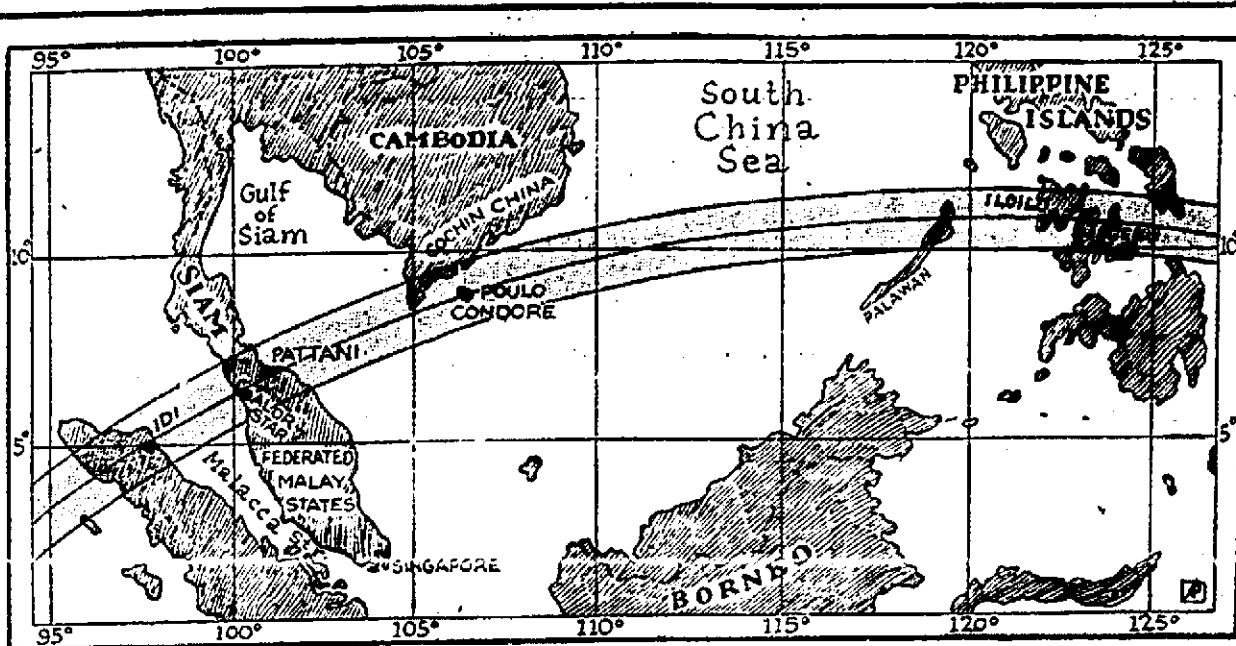

There, at Idli, it is to be awaited by a group of astronomers living in huts for weeks, making ready their instruments. After its passage over Idli, for the next 2,000 miles, which will be traveled in a little more than an hour, the eclipse will be "shot" repeatedly by the photographic astronomers along the trail.

Seldom have more expensive and toilsome preparations been made for an eclipse. A dozen parties of astronomers from Europe and America have traveled half around the world for the event. Nowhere does the eclipse touch except at the world's odd corners.

After Sumatra it will cross Malacca strait and pass over Siam and the Malay of Kedah, where more astronomers are waiting at Alor Star, Jitra, Kodiah, Pattani and Khoke Blode.

Next is more water, the gulf of Siam, and then the southern tip of Cochinchina and the French island of Poulo Condore. Exactly in the center of the shadow is this island, and French astronomers already are waiting there.

From there the eclipse crosses the south China sea, and then the Philippines, last stand of the astronomers, who wait at Iloilo and Cebu. Swarthmore college and the United States naval observatory have Philippine stations. Harvard has an expedition in the Malay peninsula.

In Sumatra, the Malays and Cochinchina the weather records are about 50-50 for fair skies. In the Philippines they are better, but the eclipse there lasts only 4 minutes.

At sunset, far out in the Pacific to the eastward of the Philippines, the eclipse will end as it began, a spectacle for a few ships at sea.

London (AP)—The Anglican Evangelical Group of the Church of England has issued figures showing only 16,300 clergymen in the country as compared with 21,000 in 1914. Candidates for ordination in 1928 numbered 265 whereas 650 were required to keep the lists up to standard.

SALTZMAN ALWAYS SHOWED INTEREST IN COMMUNICATION

New Member of Federal Radio Commission Was Former Signal Corps Chief

Washington (AP)—Development of communications has been the life work of Maj. Gen. Charles Saltzman, former chief of the army signal corps, who has been selected by President Hoover to be the member of the federal radio commission from the fourth zone.

Since retirement from the army in January, 1928, after serving four years as head of the signal corps, General Saltzman has been living in Washington, although maintaining his official residence in Iowa, the state of his birth. The fourth zone, which he will represent, embraces Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri.

Owing to the rapid advancement of radio in the communication field as a competition of telegraph and cable lines, engineers here regard as particularly fitting the selection of the veteran signal corps officer, familiar with both wire and wireless problems. From his youth in a small

Iowa town, when he was a telegraph operator, to the completion of his long army career, General Saltzman has been interested in communications.

He has had frequent contact with international radio problems. He was a delegate to the International Radio Conference in London in 1912, a representative of the war department on the committee of international electro-technical communication, a member of the International Union of Scientific Radio Telegraphy and a delegate to the international telegraph conference at Paris in 1925.

As chairman of the technical subcommittee, he had a prominent part in formulating the regulations adopted at the international radio telegraph conference in Washington in 1927. Mr. Hoover headed the American delegation to the conference, but other duties as secretary of commerce demanded much of his attention and he turned over a great deal of the radio responsibilities to General Saltzman.

General Saltzman is 57 years old. He was graduated from West Point in 1896, won citations for gallantry in action in the Spanish-American war and was awarded the distinguished service medal for his work in the world war.

AWARD PRIZES IN SCHOOL CONTEST

George Merkle Wins First Place in Hand Work With Homemade Radio

Awards for hand work, posters and booklets in ninth grade general science were awarded to three pupils at Wilson Junior high school and seven pupils were given honorable mention in a contest which closed the first of the week. George Merkle won first place in the hand work contest with a complete three-tube radio set and Miss Alice Mueller won first and Miss Ruth Schubert second in the poster contest.

Miss Mueller's poster was on "The Uses of Electricity," and Miss Schubert's subject was "Wireless Telegraphy."

The radio set made by George Merkle was especially commended by the judges, who stated that its organization, care in placement, and complexity, made it easily the largest project attempted in the class. In the hand work contest the Leyden jars made by Miss Marcella Haberman, Lester Lausman and Simon Cherkasky, the induction coils by Misses Marcella Endter and Jane Ritzer and Simon Cherkasky, and the electric buzzer by Miss Helen McGrath were recommended for extra credit.

Honorable mention was given to the following posters: "Power," Miss Marjorie Rasmussen; "The Telegraph," Miss Ruth Schubert; "Electricity Word Golf," a crossword puzzle using terms applied to electricity, Miss Catherine Fountain; "Silk," Miss Josephine Pivonka; "Power," showing the uses of batteries, Miss Marcella Haberman; "Power," showing uses of dry cells, Miss Ione Bergsbaken; and "The Magnetic Field," a drawing, Miss Marcella Endter.

First and second awards carried with them five points of additional credit; an honorable mention, three points; and any other entry, two points. In cases where an entrant of more than one piece of work won an award, only one extra credit was counted.
